FRENCH AND BELGIAN TERRITORY WILL SOON BE WHOLLY CLEARED OF HATED TEUTONIC INVADERS

Forces of Allies Are Steadily Advancing Through Districts Lately Oppressed by Germans—Nearly All of Alsace-Lorraine Now Occupied by French Troops.

STRASSBURG ENTRY TO BE MEMORABLE

Marshal Foch Will Be Accompanied by King Albert of Belgium—British Army of Occupation Crosses Ourthe River, and Americans Have Reached German Border.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The War Office announcement tonight on the operations of the army of occupation says:

"The complete occupation of liberated territories in Alsace and Lorraine is in process of achievement. During the course of the day our troops installed themselves in numerous towns and villages in the Sarre valley, notably in Dillingen, Sarrebruck and Serrelouis, where the general commanding the First Army entered at the head of his troops.

"In Alsace French advanced guards reached the former frontier and took possession of Woerth, Froeschwiller and Reischoffen, as well as Soults and Bischwiller. Everywhere the French troops were enthusiastically welcomed by the delivered populations."

The entry of French troops into Strassburg will complete the liberation of Alsace. The military occupation of the city, at which King Albert of Belgium will be present with Marshal Foch, says the Petit Journal, will be followed by another ceremony.

At a conference of President Poincare, Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch at the Elysee Palace on Friday, it was decided that the entry of the civil authorities would take place on December 8, in the presence of the President, the Premier, the members of the Cabinet and deputations from the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies. They will leave Paris on a special train December 6.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Field Marshal Haig's report on the movements of the British armies of occupation, issued tonight, says:

"The march toward the German frontier is proceeding satisfactorily. Advanced troops of the Fourth Army have crossed the Ourthe river south of Bomal and are pushing forward to the east.

"The number of guns left behind by the retreating enemy now in our hands exceeds 600. A number of airplanes and quantities of rolling stock have also passed into our possession."

Americans Along Moselle River

LUXEMBURG, Nov. 23.—Within a stone's throw at some points of the rearguards of the German army, the American forces under Major-General Dickmann settled themselves today for a step across the enemys' frontier. Without opposition at any place, the Americans continued the absorption of that part of the territory evacuated by the Germans under the armistice terms.

On the extreme left the American army of occupation reached before nightfall Ingledorf, about a mile west of Diekirch. In general a line along the Our and Moselle Rivers was occupied, the extreme right being south of Remich. The closing movement today brought more than a score of towns under Allied control. In one or two of these, just west of the German frontier, the inhabitants were somewhat less demonstrative, but even the majority of the people seemed to be pleased at the change.

Along the Moselle River near the northern part of the lines the American outposts look across the narrow stream at German soldiers marching or sauntering along the streets of villages over which the German flag flew. Grevenmacher, the largest town in proximity to the American line, was evacuated before noon, the movement of the Germans to the opposite bank of the river indicating that they were making ready to retire still further during the night or on Saturday.

PREMIER OF FRANCE IS STILL IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Premier Clemenceau was reported early today to have gone to London, but he is still in France.

A semi-official note published this evening in The Temps explains that Premier Lloyd George has invited M. Clemenceau to visit London, and that the French Premier has accepted in principle, though the date has not yet been fixed.

The Premier certainly will not go to London, it is added, before King George and Queen Mary have made their intended visit to Paris at the end of this month.

GERMAN ARMIES FLOCK HOMEWARD

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 23.—The Tageblatt, of Berlin, a copy of which has been received here, published advices from Frankfort to the effect that 100,000 German soldiers, mainly from lines of communication, are passing through Frankfort daily.

The advices say further that trains are running regularly; accidents have been reduced to a minimum; the provisioning system is better than under the old regime and supplies are assured for weeks ahead; the excitment attending the revolution has been quelled and that there is not the slightest lack of discipline.

CAPTIVE U-BOAT HAD SUNK MANY AMERICAN SHIPS

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Among the German submarines surrendered at Harwich Friday was one that had operated off the American coast.

According to the statement of the submarine lieutenant in command, this submarine sank 120,000 tons of American shipping.

She is a big, powerful boat and carried 42 mines and 22 torpedoes.

Scheidemann Resigns

BASEL, Nov. 22.—Philipp Scheidemann has resigned as Minister of Finance in the new German Government and his place has been taken by Herr Lansberg, Secretary of Publicity, Art and Literature, according to a Berlin dispatch.

REFUGEES HAVE WEARY JOURNEY

LILLE, France, Nov. 23.—Refugees from Northern France to the number of 150,000 are returning to their homes from Brussels, mostly on foot. The refugees say that the retiring German soldiers pillaged their own shops and sold the stolen food and supplies to the inhabitants.

TREAT WILHELM ONLY AS REFUGEE

Dutch Authorities Offer Statement on Their Course—Paris Paper Says he Has Exceptional Privileges.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Dutch legation today published a note containing a declaration by the president of the Netherlands Council of Ministers to the Chamber of Deputies saying that the former Emperor of Germany entered Dutch territory after his abdication as a private personage. The note says the kind of refuge granted to him is similar to that given all foreign refugees, and that the government could not make any exception on account of his former position when he asked to be admitted to Dutch territory.

This does not prevent the government, says the note, from carrying out the duty of watching that the former Emperor does not commit any abuse of a situation which would render hospitality detrimental to the interests of the country. The note adds that The Netherlands Government does not believe that foreign governments, whose subjects so often have had the benefit of Dutch refuge, will refuse to respect national traditions or to remember instances when they themselves gave hospitality to dethroned monarchs.

In addition the note says that the former Emperor has not in a single instance left the park or the castle where he is interned.

Answering the argument of the Dutch Government in justifying its attitude toward William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, as contained in a note issued by the Dutch legation yesterday, The Petit Journal observes that the former Emperor was at the very beginning and continues to be treated, not as a private individual but as a sovereign enjoying favorable conditions. It adds that telegrams to or from Amerongen Castle are considered as official telegrams.

"Despite the protest of the Dutch Government," The Petit Journal concludes, "and in its own interest, the Allies must insist that these favors stop and that the former Emperor be placed where it will be impossible for him to do harm."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. — The treasury today extended another credit to Belgium of $5,600,000, making total loans to Belgium $198,120,000, and a total for all allies of $8,184,076,666.

Must Liberate Russia From Bolsheviki Rule

Task of Allies as Set Forth by Prince Lvoff in Statement—Anarchy and Suffering Ruin Great Country—Recognition at Peace Conference Being Advocated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Recognition of Russia at the world peace conference at Versailles was urged by Prince Lvoff, first prime minister of Russia after the overthrow of the Czar, in a statement today to the American people. Prince Lvoff expressed his conviction that any programme of reconstruction which does not provide for the complete destructin of Bolshevism in Russia will leave in the world the germ of another great war.

"The termination of the war has raised the question of the peace conference," said Prince Lvoff. "I think a sense of duty and justice dictates to the Allies the necessity of organising in Versailles the defence of Russian interests. This work can be done by Russians only. The country as a whole is unable at present to send to the conference it's plenipotentiary representatives. But when our friend is ill we act for him.

"To designate the persons and consider the form of their part at the conference is a matter of friendly interest to the Allies."

Of the Bolsheviki rulers of Russia, Prince Lvoff said:

"At the moment of greatest weariness of the war they promised peace, bread and liberty to the people, and many followed.

"Instead of peace they gave neverceasing war; instead of bread, hunger without precedent in Russia; instead of liberty, a bloody tyranny such as we never knew in the worst years of the reign of the Czar.

"The Bolsheviki are indulging in a perpetual revolution. Their aim is universal social eruption. They are interested in Russia chiefly as a hearth where they may keep up by all means the world's conflagration. From the outside it would seem that the Bolsheviki display strong power, but this impression is not correct. Almost all the branches of their administration are in a state of chaos, and they are unable to enforce, even by the most cruel and sanguinary measures, the submission of the border lands and the execution of their decrees.

"In the Bolsheviki state, in connection with complete anarchy, reign hunger and the need of all essentials of life. The Allies have decided to feed vanquished foes. Can they let Russia die of starvation? The Allies require order of Germany. Can they tolerate the nest of anarchists in Russia, the domination of the Bolsheviki, who are aiming to kindle class hatred and the struggle with the arms of the proletariat against other groups of the population?

"I deem the intervention of the Allies is dictated not only by pure compassion for the victims of Russian Bolshevism, but by political foresight as well."

Prince Lvoff praised highly the accomplishments of the Czecho-Slovak forces, and said that around them had centred such ideas of order as were successful in parts of Russia. He predicted that the separated communities now organising under the impulse of the Czecho-Slovak adventure, if aided by the Allies, now that the need is most pressing, would fuse again into a strong central state

FOOD SCARCITY IS ONLY PRETENCE

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A neutral correspondent writes to The Morning Post that he has received a letter from Kiel in in which this occurs:

"We are better off for food this year than in 1917. There is plenty of grain and potatoes, so there will be no shortage."

The Post comments as follows:

"This only confirms the belief held in authoritative quarters here that the conditions of scarcity advertised in Germany's daily whine about the armistice conditions do not exist. Out of their own mouths, or those of their rulers and newspapers, before the collapse, the Germans can be shown to have confessed to have sufficient to carry them through the Winter."

"SILVER BADGE" MEN MEET KING

His Majesty Reviews and Addresses Those Who Have Been Discharged Because of Wounds—Wild Enthusiasm.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—There were scenes of wild enthusiasm in Hyde Park today during the King's review of the "Silver Badge" men—those who have served in the forces and since have been discharged on account of wounds or other physical disability.

As King George, with the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, General Sir William R. Robertson, commander of the forces in Great Britain, and staff officers, rode past the lines, the men forming three sides to a square, there were remarkable demonstrations of loyalty. When the King reached the third section the men suddenly broke ranks and crowded about him, grasping his hands. Others surrounded the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught and shook hands heartily with them.

In the meantime, other discharged soldiers gathered around the carriage in which were the Queen Mother, Alexandra, and the Princess Victoria. The men climbed onto the footboards and the back of the vehicle in their eagerness to shake hands with the royal ladies.

"God bless you, dear boys!" exclaimed the Queen Mother, as she shook hands with as many of the men as she could.

An attempt was made to take the horses from the carriage so that the men might pull it themselves, but officers and mounted police persuaded them to fall into line again.

In his address to the men, the King said:

"I am glad to have met you today and to have looked into the faces of those who, for the defence of home and the Empire, were ready to give up their all and have sacrificed their limbs, sight, hearing and health. Your wounds, the most honorable distinction a man can bear, inspire reverence in your fellow countrymen. May Almighty God mitigate your sufferings and give you strength to bear them. As your King, I thank yop. We all honor you and admire the ungrudging way in which you have done your duty. That you may live long and enjoy with happiness the peace you have so hardly won, is the most earnest wish of my heart."

Italian Prisoners Suffer

TRIESTE, Nov. 23.—The cold is intense and Italians returning from prison camps are suffering greatly from exposure. The American Red Cross has concentrated 250,000 garments here and these are being distributed to the sufferers.

METZ INHABITANTS STILL SHOW FEAR

Effects of German Oppression Wear Off Slowly—Men Inclined to Speak in Whispers of Their New Freedom—Old Administrator Is Surprised by Arrival of Successor.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY AT METZ, Nov. 23.—It is going to take some time for the "territory of Metz" to accustom itself to the changes which are being made in its administration, in the opinion of the old inhabitants of this region. By this name this part of reconquered Lorraine will be known when it has been finally and fully reinstalled in the French republic.

The greater problem will be Metz itself, the smaller towns and rural districts, excepting the mining districts, being as thoroughly French as ever. Metz, the metropolis of the province, however, after having served for 48 years as a German garrison, has been Germanized to an extent that can be appreciated only by personal encounter. The very considerable number of German immigrants the imperial army brought with it had established a strong German colony, almost equalling the French civilian population in numbers. These Germans held all the public offices. They finally succeeded in gaining an equal representation with the French in the municipal council.

The native population, unfailing in its loyalty to France, was overwhelmed and terrorized and could only nurse its affection for France in secret. They still find occasionally that in spite of themselves they are cautious about who they are speaking to when talking of France, and their newly regained liberty, from instinctive fear of a heavy German hand on the shoulder and an invitation to follow to the police station.

The German population, on the other hand, appear to lack thus far full comprehension of what has happened. They take the arrival of the French troops as an unwarranted invasion. The presiding officer of the German civil administration, Baron von Gemmingen, showed surprise when Monsieur Mirman, the prefect of Nancy, appointed commissary by the French Government for Lorraine, arrived to take possession of his post.

M. Mirman found a portrait of the German Emperor still hanging in the private office of the prefecture. Naturally it was taken down and relegated to a corner. This action Baron von Gemmingen characterized as "violent pressure." It took two days to convince the ober-president of the German administration that the newly-arrived commissary was in fact his successor and that he must give way.

Order is being maintained in Metz during the period of transition by natives of Alsace-Lorraine, with tricolor badges on their arms.

The arrival of French troops with the prospects of more and better food has had a decided effect in lowering prices. Articles that were 15 marks a week ago are selling for 10 francs.

It is possible today to lunch well in Metz for five francs. The bread and meat rations as fixed under the German card system will be increased on the arrival of trains of provisions already on the way.

Most of the French officials sent here to administer the affairs of the territory of Metz are natives of Lorraine, who know the mentality of the populations thoroughly. The municipal government will be entirely in the hands of native inhabitants. The municipal council, half of which was composed of natives and the other half immigrants, has been dissolved, because no immigrants will be admitted to participation in the administration of affairs at present.

One hundred persons, including some women chosen from the French population, will in turn choose a municipal commission to take charge of the city's affairs in cooperation with Commissary Mirman.

Germans employed in public administrations will be retained so long as they perform their duties properly, but the direction of all municipal affairs will within 48 hours be entirely in the hands of the French population. The general policy will be to respect the Germans and in no way molest them as long as they make no trouble. Those that disturb the peace will be severely dealt with.

The German revolution in Metz was accomplished a few days before the signing of the armistice by three sailors who had come from Hamburg unarmed to demand the surrender of the fortress. The Governor immediately capitulated, and the three German jackies were for a few days masters of the fortress.

Their reign gave place to that of a council of soldiers and workmen composed almost entirely of natives of Lorraine, whose object was more to maintain some kind of order than to install a revolutionary government. The German military and civilian authorities made no resistance to either the three sailors or the council of soldiers and workmen. Several days later, when they discovered that the spirit of revolt was nowhere nearly as strong as it had at first appeared, it was too late to take measures. The armistice had been signed and the soldiers and workmen of Lorraine who formed the council were as ready as any to welcome the French troops.

FIND DIFFICULTY IN NORTH RUSSIA

Allied Troops are at Disadvantage Because of Character of Terrain — Bolsheviki Would Slaughter People.

ARCHANGEL, Nov. 22.—The American and Entente troops have encountered strong opposition both on the Vologda-Archangel railway and on the Dvina river.

Owing to the swampy condition of the terrain it has been necessary to confine operations to the waterway and railway. As the upperpart of the river is deeper than at its mouth, the Bolsheviki craft, equipped with large guns, have been better able to manoeuvre than the Entente ships, and have prevented the occupation of Kotlas by the Entente.

A plan is under discussion in military circles for the creation of a voluntary army for Russian relief should the Allies agree upon the policy of feeding Russia.

Daylight in Archangel now is of only four hours' duration, and this fact, with the fogs, facilitates the guerilla warfare of the Bolsheviki, operating in the shelter of the forests. It is believed the evacuation of the Archangel district by the Allies probably would result in the murder of the entire population friendly to the Entente by the Bolsheviki, just as the elements antagonistic to the Bolsheviki were slaughtered in the Volga towns evacuated by the Czechs after the establishment of White Guard movements under Czech support.

Allied encouragement of the anti-Bolsheviki campaign has carried with it a responsibility that the military leaders are unwilling to overlook.

PEOPLE STARVE IN PETROGRAD

Food is Kept by Bolsheviki for Their Own Partisans and General Population is Allowed to Suffer.

EXECUTE PRISONERS TO SAVE SUPPLIES

Blankets are Seized From Householders and Sent Off to Germany — Extremists Grow Stronger in Old Capital

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Dogs and men are battling in Petrograd for the flesh of horses which drop dead in the streets, according to a British business man who has just arrived in London. He escaped from Petrograd early in November and evaded the Bolsheviki guard at the frontier in Finland at night.

The Bolsheviki, he said, have announced since the recapture of Kasarin and Samara, that they would have grain enough to feed the soldiers, sailors and their own partisans throughout the Winter. They will not issue food to any other persons. As a result money has lost its food-buying power and the non-Bolsheviki Russians are in a desperate condition.

All the wholesale and retail establishments have been nationalized, and by putting Bolsheviki committees in charge of all residences, M. Zinovieff, the food administrator, has effected a complete secret service system of food. The transport of food into Petrograd is under close supervision, cutting off the last source available to non-Bolsheviki.

The friction between Zinovieff and the Moscow authorities continues, Zinovieff insisting that the northern commune should be independent.

The Bolsheviki are executing many prisoners, and are making no attempt to conceal that such action has been forced upon them in order to conserve food.

The British narrator says that the Bolsheviki strength in Petrograd, as well as in Moscow, has increased since the attempts on Lenine's life and the advances in the Volga region, largely because many Russian liberals believe that they must choose between the Bolsheviki and the extreme reactionaries, as none of the faction leaders in the centre show strength.

Maxim Gorky has joined the Bolsheviki and has accepted a position in the department of education. Many others who were at first opposed to the Bolsheviki are taking similar action.

The Petrograd commune recently required householders to give over their blankets, presumably for the army, under a heavy penalty, and a great scandal has developed through the discovery by sailors of over a trainload of blankets destined for Germany.

In spite of the widespread desolation the commune is supporting the national opera, the ballet and the theatres, giving free performances to soldiers, sailors and school children.

SIBERIA IS KEY FOR RUSSIAN AID

Mr. C. F. Just Speaks of Work to be Done in Assisting Restoration—Canadian Trade Commission.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 23.—"The chief desire of the Allies seems to be to assist Russia to become a self-constituted unit," states C. F. Just, a member of the Siberian trade commission from Canada, who is in Vancouver.

"The Russian people have come to believe that monarchy means absolutism," he said, "and the only alternative for them seems to be a federal system of states. They cannot understand how it is possible for such a spirit of democracy to exist as that which is found in Great Britain, and of course until the time arrives when Russia is able to again stand upon her own feet it will be necessary to provide trained soldiers for police duty and trade commissioners for the education of the people along modern industrial lines."

Mr. Just referred to Siberia as the supposed key to the reconstruction of Russia.

"There must be some definite policy of economic assistance," he said, "and this must be given through the proper authorities. Intervention must be along constructive lines, and it is for the purpose of planning the best method of procedure that our small commission is proceeding to Vladivostok. Later it will be necessary to have a larger commission and carry on the work on a more comprehensive scale."

Messrs. Hoover and Hurley

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Herbert C. Hoover, the American Food Administrator, and Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the Shipping Board, have arrived here. They were met by representatives of the British food and shipping departments. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Hurley will remain here over the week-end and then proceed to Paris.

PRISONERS ARE SENT TO DEATH

Germans Show Unbridled Brutality to Helpless Men—Those From Britain are Given Shocking Treatment.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(Reuter's).—While the state institutions of Germany are crumbling, to the infinite relief of mankind, there are several hundreds of thousands of men in Germany whose plight, which before the signing of the armistice was bad, has since become desperate, writes Reuter's correspondent at the French Headquarters. He says there are prisoners of-war—British, French and Roumanian—who are now being released from German prison camps. These men have been living and working for months on a diet of three or four hundred gramms of infamously bad bread a day, supplemented by a soup, issued at midday, made of water in which cabbage and barley have been boiled. They all thought their condition could not conceivably be worse. Now they know better.

Continuing, the correspondent writes: "Apparently they started from the prison camps in droves of several hundred in charge of officers and a couple of soldiers, who were to give them directions. Invariably these guides deserted them after a few hours, alleging the excuse that they had lost their way and must go back to inquire it.

Dying by Roadside

"What happened to the prisoners, as I gathered from their story, was this: They tramped westward after their guides had left them until nightfall. Most of them slept two or three hours in fields and awoke stiff and cold, and, realizing that it might mean death to fall asleep again, got up and continued their journey. In the morning there was thick ice on the pools. They walked all next day and next night, with occasional rests in the open, but without food or sleep. On the second morning, after another icy night, they met French soldiers and were given food and put into motor lorries and taken to the nearest town. They are in such a state that the French officers, who are well used to sights of war, were horrified to see men in such condition. Some of them certainly died by the roadside of cold and exhaustion only a few miles from their friends. How many died there is no means of knowing. Some men I talked with told me positively that in their party five had died; others told me of two deaths or three among their party. The big droves by natural process split up into little groups, which clung together for company as long as possible.

"One man told me of a comrade in his regiment who had been taken prisoner and with whom he had shared the danger and brutality of the prison camp life for over seven months. This man, he said, dropped like Heine's grenadier on reaching the abandoned German front line trenches, and died within a few miles from friends.

"Neither of them knew where they were, and at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, when the ice was forming on puddles in the shell holes and there was not a light in sight or a friend or even an enemy to help, there was nothing for him to do but wait until the exhausted man was dead and then go on alone.

British Singled Out

"It would be difficult to over-estimate the misery of these poor men, whose fault was that they were British soldiers. I have as yet only met one Roumanian and heard of a few Italians who have been treated in this way, but there is no doubt that it has happened to thousands of British soldiers. It is not doubted that this suffering was intentionally imposed upon the British. Prisoners of other nationalities are agreed that the British were treated worse than the others at all German camps.

"I am writing this in Nancy, and I read in the local newspaper a joyous paragraph announcing that 30,000 British prisoners are marching through Germany. I can only hope that they have at least been given some bread and provided with guides who will find them reasonably warm shelters at night."

Unmeasured Brutality

A further report of Sir Robert Younger's committee dealing with the treatment of British prisoners in the coal and salt mines of Germany, gives harrowing details of brutal treatment by the Germans. This report says: "From testimony scarcely a month old, it is evident that there is no sign of improvement whatever in the treatment of prisoners in Germany. This disgrace is open and flagrant, and the only possible inference is that Berlin deliberately approves of it. There is no doubt that work in the mines is inflicted as punishment. Here is an extract from a letter dated May 20 last, from a British private soldier:

"'We have had little to eat since we left Hamelin, two of our number having gone to the hospital with broken arms and the remainder are suffering from cuts on their heads and bruises as the result of floggings they received at the last place. I fell in a faint unable to work any longer last Saturday, and the man in charge, a civilian, kicked me back into my senses and kept me down in the mine sixteen hours after all my gang had gone up. If you could only see the boys here. They all look like dead men. They are worked to death.'"

Many Lives Sacrificed

The record of daily violence might be much further illustrated. To scores of men who have given evidence concerning the mining camps, kicks, blows and insults became a part of the normal routine. Here is an example from the testimony of a man who had been at one time in the Hamelin salt mines:

"In January, 1918, I refused to complete my task, as it was a physical impossibility. I was taken out of the mines dressed only in shirt and drawers—it is too hot in the mine to wear anything else—and put for the night in a hut which was not waterproof. In the morning it was half-full of snow. The next day I was taken to the mine and again beaten until I had finished my task. I received nothing to eat from the time I went down into the mine on the first morning until 2 o'clock the next afternoon. It is impossible to say how many prisoners' lives were sacrificed, for until more evidence is given by men set free the exact conditions must remain in obscurity."

KING OF BELGIUM ENTERS CAPITAL

Return of Royal Family Is Attended by Remarkable Demonstrations—Vast Crowds Join in Acclamation.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23.—King Albert entered Brussels yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. He was accompanied by Queen Elizabeth, Princes Leopold and Charles and Princess Marie Jose.

The Royal party landed at the Porte de Flandres and proceeded to the Place de la National, receiving a tremendous ovation along the streets. Entering the parliament house, King Albert and his family listened to an address of welcome. Then followed a review of Allied troops, which formed a line 10 miles long.

Flowers were thrown in the path of King Albert as the procession made its way along the boulevards, lined for miles with dense throngs. As this dispatch was written the noise of cheering rolled continuously like thunder across the city.

King Albert and his two sons were on horseback. The Crown Prince was on his right and was dressed in khaki, while his younger brother was dressed in the uniform of a midshipman. The city is wearing its gala dress, and the influx of thousands during recent days has made it impossible for all to obtain lodgings. Many are sleeping in public halls and buildings.

Unparalleled Scenes

LONDON, Nov. 23.—British, French and American troops marched with the Belgians into Brussels yesterday, when King Albert made his entry into his capital, says the Daily Mail's correspondent who witnessed the entry.

"I have seen many great ceremonies at many places, but I have never seen so vast and various a crowd so carried away by a tumult of fervor. Put a modern artillery barrage into terms of delight and you have some indifferent measure of the concentrated ecstasy of a people who felt that their release from captivity coincided with the birth of the millennium.

"The Royal Family stood for the return of peace. The King was at the head of the army which has won that peace by its sacrifice. Two divisions of the Belgian army, occupying something like fifteen miles of roads, marched in the procession, accompanied by battalions of French, British and American troops with artillery. This procession was far down the Ghent road while the front was passing down the Rue Royale.

"The day was like midsummer. Many airplanes turned a silver lining to the sun as they played fantastic tricks high in the blue. Others let drop streamers on the roads. Every window, balcony, roof and street was packed over the whole route. The people on the balconies had provided themselves with numerous miniature flags and floaters that rained down continuously. Thousands could not even approach the route of the parade. All the roads leading to the Rue Royale and the Boulevard Anspach were blocked with folk. The crowd was impassable, and at the Porte de Flandres, hours before the King's arrival, all thoroughfares were blocked. I found three British dragoons enveloped by an ardent crowd off the line of the route and afraid to move either way. Musical people burst into the national song at any prompting, or at none at all.

"At one place 500 young women, in soprano chorus, sang the Belgian song. Near this gay company stood a pathetic group of as many wounded men."

The return of King Albert to his capital recalls the King's prophecy in an interview with the Associated Press only a few months after the Belgians, having checked the first rush of the Germans, had been driven from their country. In the dispatch reporting this interview, given on December 20, 1914, at the King's headquarters in West Flanders, the following passage occurred: "Your Majesty, it has been predicted that you will re-enter your capital within three months," the correspondent said.

The King shook his head sadly, saying: "Not so soon, but some day I shall ride into Brussels at the head of the Belgian Army."

SWEDISH STEAMER TO BE CONFISCATED

HALIFAX, Nov. 22.—Mr. Justice Drysdale, of the Admiralty Court, has rendered judgment in the case against the Swedish steamer Svithoid, seized in the early days of the war and brought to Halifax, confiscating the ship and her cargo of rubber. Counsel for the ship have applied for permission to appeal to the Privy Council.

Mr. Justice Drysdale, in his judgment, finds that the captain of the Svithoid acted in collusion with people in Pernambuco in attempting to smuggle the third officer of a German steamer, interned there, to Germany. The judgment relates that the Svithoid's captain protested on his arrival here that he did not know that he had the interned officer on board. The Admiralty judge holds that the captain lied in so protesting, and finds that this alone is justification for the confiscation of the ship, with the cargo of rubber it contained. The cargo was contraband and carried without authority.

French Socialists' Request

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A Socialists' delegation called on Premier Clemenceau Friday to inquire whether the Government would have representatives of the working classes at the peace conference and whether an international congress would be authorized during the negotiation. The Premier replied that he would refer both questions to the Cabinet and the Allied Governments.

TWENTY THOUSAND MEN WILL STRIKE

In Protest Against Proposed Hanging of T. J. Mooney—Trouble May Mean Withdrawal of Contracts.

SEATTLE, Nov. 23. — Twenty thousand workers connected with the Seattle shipyards have voted to lay down their tools for a general strike on December 9 in protest against the proposed hanging of Thomas J. Mooney. This action was taken last night by the two largest local unions composed of shipyard employees. The strike is to be for an indefinite period. The vote taken at both meetings last night was unanimous.

Eighteen thousand members of the Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers local No. 104, will go out on this date and 4,000 members of the Shipyard Laborers, Riggers and Fasteners will join them if Mooney's appeal is not granted.

Five hundred and fifty members of the shipyard laborers, riggers and fasteners' local were present last night and voted unanimous acceptance of the resolutions adopted and passed by the Metal Trades Council in declaring a protest strike.

A second meeting is planned for next Friday night, between which time ballots will be sent to all absent members. W. B. Harris, secretary of the union, stated last night that the entire sentiment of the union was such that there was not a particle of doubt as to the ultimate result.

The 18,000 members of the Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers' local are pledged to walk out. This is said to be the largest union in Seattle, the membership of which comprises the majority of shipyard workers.

At last night's meeting the Macy award was discussed, but no definite action was taken. It is expected that some decision will be reached at next Friday's meeting, when it will again come up for discussion.

May Effect Contracts

Labor trouble on the Pacific Coast at this time will result in the withdrawing of contracts for steel ships and a possible closing down of some yards, according to Alfred J. Ball, a member of the United States Export Control Committee of Washington, D.C.

Mr. Ball is here on a visit to study traffic conditions concerning the congestion of freight in Seattle for Siberia and Oriental points. He finds, he says, that the railroad situation is in good shape and hopes that his recommendations will be carried out.

Although his department is not directly interested, Mr. Ball expresses regret at the possibility of a strike in the shipyards of Puget Sound. He says there is a strong possibility if a strike is declared, that the Shipping Board will cancel all its contracts in the Northwest and have all its ships built in the East, where steel is to be had for less money and where conditions are more favorable from the standpoint of the board.

The discontinuance of the convoys across the Atlantic has meant that millions of tons of shipping have been added monthly, so that the demand for ships is not nearly so pressing now as it was a month ago.

GERMANS NURSE IDEA OF REVENGE

Correspondent Finds Hatred of Britain Universal Among Population—Plan to Create Great Hostile Federation.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Dispatches to The Daily Times from The Hague, from its correspondent, who has made a tour of Western Germany since the revolution, says:

"The hatred of England is universal, from the beggar to the banker, from the infant to the dotard, and the idea of revenge for their defeat by England is implanted already in the hearts of tiny children.

"The Germans will neither forgive nor forget. Neither money nor comfort will tell with them henceforth. They have been beaten by England, and they will live and die to smash England. England has never had a deadlier enemy than the new Germany.

"Also, it must not be forgotten that Germans, high and low, and of all parties, believe that they can play off President Wilson and the United States against England."

The Daily Express says editorially that the menace to the world is not ended. "There are indications of a grand plan to trick the Allies and create a German federation which would embrace besides the present German states German Austria, Holland, Switzerland and Sweden, whose combined population and reserves would far exceed those of the German Empire.

SOLDIERS OF U.S. ARE GOING HOME

General March Announces that Demobilization is in Rapid Progress — Statement of Casualties is Given.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Demobilization of the American expeditionary force, already in progress with the movement homeward of sick and wounded, will be hastened by the return at an early date of eight divisions of National Guards and National Army troops, eight regiments of coast artillery and two brigades of field artillery. This announcement was made today by General March, chief of staff, on receipt of dispatches from General Pershing.

Total American casualties to November 11, when hostilities ceased, were 236,117. This includes, General March said, killed and died of wounds, died of disease, unclassified deaths, wounded, prisoners and missing.

Eighty-two aero squadrons, 17 construction companies and several special units from England will be brought home as soon as transportation facilities are available, General March said.

Casualties sustained by the Americans are tabulated by General March as follows:

Killed and died of wounds, 36,154.
Died of disease, 14,811.
Deaths unclassified, 2,204.
Wounded, 179,625.
Prisoners, 2,163.
Missing, 1,160.
Total, 236,117.

While the total losses suffered by the American army in France at first glance appeared to be almost double the total estimated by officers here as probable, analysis of the table, it was pointed out, shows that among the 179,000 wounded are included the names of thousands of men whose injuries were so trivial that they never were admitted to hospitals, and the record of their injury was kept only in company and regimental dressing stations. The final total of killed, died of wounds or disease, or on the unclassified death list, the seriously wounded and missing, officers believe will work out not in excess of 125,000.

The official figures show also nearly double the number of deaths from disease that have been made public to date. No explanation has been forwarded by General Pershing, but it is asserted that the unexpected increase is due to the wide distribution of American and Allied hospitals to which the men were sent, making it a slow process to assemble the data.

The number of Americans taken prisoner by the Germans—little more than 2,000—is strikingly low in view of General March's announcement that a total "in round numbers" of 44,000 Germans had been captured by the Americans. The fact that the American armies have been moving forward continuously since they entered the battle doubtless accounts for the great difference.

The 1160 men reported as missing probably include others who will be found to have been captured, some whose bodies will never be recovered and others who may have become lost in the ranks of the French or British forces. The classification also covers the unidentified dead always to be expected when great bodies of troops are engaged.

Secretary Baker supplemented General Marsh's outline of demobilization plans later by stating that General Pershing was reducing his army to a strength of 30 divisions and would further reduce it as conditions justify. At an average of strength, 50,000 men to a division, which would cover all necessary auxiliary forces, this would mean that General Pershing would retain 1,200,000 men in France, from which the actual army of occupation and its reserves would be organized to provide against any possible emergency.

General March showed that virtually all of the supplemental army corps and army troops are to be withdrawn.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 22.—Several thousand American troops sailed for home today on the liners Lapland and Minnehaha. It was a stirring scene as the men marched from the railroad station and local camps to the landing stage amid the rousing cheers from the throngs of people along the streets.

PADEREWSKI SEES FREEDOM FOR POLAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Possessed of power of attorney to act on behalf of various Polish committees in the United States, Ignace J. Paderewski sailed for Europe to further the interests of his compatriots in the pending peace developments. In Paris, the noted pianist plans to confer with the Polish National Council, which has been recognised by the Allies, and he will visit London and Rome and perhaps represent Poland during the peace negotiations.

"Poland will be free, and so will her inhabitants," Mr. Paderewski said in a statement before departing. "The democratic constitution of Poland will assure liberty and equality to every citizen without distinction as to race, religion or political opinion. Catholics, Protestants and Jews all will enjoy equal rights, as they will all fulfill equal duties."

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches and "the blues" should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MINISTER DENIES INDEMNITY STORY

Financial Times has Twisted Version of Facts Concerning Canada's Claim to Share in Reconstruction Business.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 13.—A special Ottawa dispatch to The Province says:

"The story published by The Financial Times of Montreal that Canada will forego all claim for indemnity against Germany if a billion dollars are expended in Canada for materials to be used in the reconstruction of Northern France and Belgium was denied today as being without foundation by Sir Thomas White.

"The Finance Minister said that the question of indemnity as against Germany has no bearing upon the right which Canada asserts of participation with the other Allies in business arising out of the restoration by the Allies of France, Belgium and other devastated countries.

"The position is that the Prime Minister took with him to England a memorandum prepared by the Minister of Finance offering an extensive credit in Canada for the purchase of materials and supplies to be used in the work of reconstruction.

"In return for this credit, we would accept the securities of an international commission backed by inter-Allied credit, or the securities of one or more of the nations concerned. Such securities might be collaterally secured by any indemnities to which the nations in question might be entitled from Germany. So far as the Dominion is concerned, there would, therefore, be no additional interest charges owing to the increase in national debt incurred in establishing the credit here. The interest which the Dominion would receive upon such a credit would be equivalent to the interest which the Dominion would pay upon loans issued to the Canadian people for the purpose of raising the money.

"The Minister of Finance has received a cable from Sir Robert Borden stating that the proposal has been taken up with the British authorities. There is reason to believe that it has been well received. It is probable that Canadian representatives will join the committees, one of which is being established for each country requiring extensive reconstruction work. Sir George Foster, Sir George Perley and Messrs. Jones, Robertson and Draper are acting as a committee to forward the interests of Canada in this regard."

GERMANS TRYING FOR SETTLEMENT

Bundesrath is Instructed to Carry on its Work as Before—Negotiations Between Cabinet and Council.

BERLIN, Thursday, Nov. 21, via Copenhagen, Friday, Nov. 22.—The Bundesrath has not yet been dissolved, and the government has instructed it to proceed with its routine administrative duties in the same manner that the other departments of the former government are now doing.

Negotiations are going on between the cabinet and the soldiers' and workmen's council for the purpose of establishing the respective jurisdiction of those bodies. The absence of sharply defined limits of authority has resulted in frequent collisions. The new understanding now being arrived at also will definitely establish the competency of the various subcommittees.

The official flag of the German democracy has not yet been selected. The German navy is flying the war flag, to which a red pennant has been attached. It is a foregone conclusion that the German people will oppose the red flag as the permanent ensign, aside from the reason that it is the banner of the international party.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—The results of the Spartacus activity continue to be reported with menacing frequency from various sections of Germany.

On top of Thursday's reports of events at Kiel (where the extremists usurped the power of the local authorities), come reports of similar attempted coups by followers of Karl Liebknecht, Independent Socialist, at Hamburg and Dusseldorf. The movement failed at Hamburg, but it succeeded at Dusseldorf.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The soldiers' and workmen's councils in the lower Rhenish Provinces, including those at Dusselford, Solingen and Remschaid, have approved the programme of the Spartacus group by a big majority, according to dispatches received here today. The council of Brunswick has adopted unanimously a resolution opposing a constituent assembly and declaring that the need of the hour is a national soldiers' and workmen's council.

A dispatch from Karlsruhe to the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, however, presents a hopeful picture of the situation in Baden, where a state constituent assembly will meet on January 5 to adopt a constitution. The entire population of Baden, this dispatch says, demands that a national assembly for Germany be summoned quickly. The new cabinet of Baden consists of eleven Socialists, two Clericals, one National Liberal and one Progressive.

CANADIAN GUNNERS FIGHT BOLSHEVIKI

LETHBRIDGE, Nov. 23.—According to word received by local people, Lethbridge artillerymen are now with the Canadian artillery in the Archangel region fighting the Bolsheviki. Several Russian trophies have already been sent home.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—G. B. Westcott, of Collingwood, comments on the statement of the Militia Department that it had no knowledge of the Canadian artillery reported to be fighting with the Allies against the Bolsheviki forces near Archangel. He says:

"About the end of August this year volunteers were called for from the artillery units then at Witley Camp (Canadian) to form a brigade to go to Northern Russia. This brigade, the sixteenth, left Witley on September 19 and sailed with other troops in a convoy from a Scottish port two days later for Archangel. When last I heard (November 14) the brigade was sailing up the river (probably the Dvina) and there is no doubt that the brigade referred to is that one. The rest of the convoy was made up of American and British troops."

Mr. Westcott has his information from letters from relatives with this force.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company gives notice in the Canada Gazette that it will apply to Parliament for an act authorizing the creation and issue for the general purposes of the company of additional Grand Trunk consolidated debenture stock, bearing interest at 4 per cent, to an aggregate amount the annual interest upon which shall not exceed $100,000.

ELECTRICITY FOR "RHEUMATISM"

For dissolving out the excessive amounts of uric acid and other foreign matter congested in the system which causes "rheumatism," electricity is in a class by itself. It increases the energy and action of the blood-purifying organs. Nature's organs are the only things on earth that can really purify the body. It helps Nature cure.

Every organ is operated by a supply of nerve energy. Nerve energy is electrical in character. When that energy is lacking, the organs slow down, whether kidneys, liver, stomach or bowels. Then waste matter accumulates in the system and all sorts of disease follow.

Energize these organs by supplying Electricity to the nerves controlling them and disease or weakness disappears. The Dr. Bell Electro-Appliance is the best and cheapest scientific electro-invigorator ever devised. It is a marvel for dissolving out rheumatic conditions, and the good results are permanent because all the organs concerned have actually been strengthened.

MARSHAL FOCH

The two outstanding military leaders whom the war has produced are Marshal Foch and the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia. The former succeeded in a way which ranks him among the great soldiers of the world. The latter, after showing all the skill of generalship necessary to bring about decisive results, was deprived of his command. General Foch was a great leader and a great master of strategy and tactics long before the war commenced. The late Lord Roberts recognized in him the master tactician of the age and predicted he would lead France to victory when war came. From the beginning of the struggle General Foch made his mark as a brilliant commander. The stubborn persistence which is characteristic of the man was displayed in striking fashion during the Marne fighting. General Foch was in command of the French centre, against which the Germans thrust repeatedly in the hope of breaking through between Sezanne and Mailly. Three times General Foch was forced to retire by the weight of the forces thrown against his army, but each morning, with imperturbable regularity, he resumed the offensive. His obstinacy won in the end. He waited his opportunity and a false step made by the enemy enabled him to take the latter in the flank and inflict the defeat which marked the first great epoch in the war.

General Foch was next heard from during the second battle of Ypres, when the German gas attack had created a desperate position for the British Army. He was sent north with reinforcements and gave valuable aid and support, which received the warm praise of Lord French. He was largely responsible for the organization of the defences in Flanders. When the French took the offensive on the Somme in 1916 General Foch was in command. A year ago, when it was decided to set up a supreme political council for the whole of the Western front, General Foch was chosen as the French representative on the central military committee. Subsequently he became the head of the Military Council of Versailles, a post which he did not hold long as early in April he was summoned to take the supreme command of all the Allied forces in the field.

Marshal Foch belongs to the type of leader who never believes a battle is lost. He was given the supreme command at a time when the military fortunes of the Allies on land appeared to be near their nadir. The Germans, in their great offensive from St. Quentin, had swept back the British Armies to the Somme and Ancre Rivers. The whole front was shaken by the mighty thrust and there seemed no co-ordinated scheme for providing reinforcements where they were required. Marshal Foch rapidly brought order out of what threatened to become military chaos. He reckoned up his resources, estimated the percentage of losses being inflicted on the enemy, came to a rapid conclusion as to how near Paris he could allow the Germans to approach, and then, having made his dispositions, awaited the moment when he believed the time was ripe to strike back. For upwards of three months more the Germans remained on the offensive, but as blow followed blow keen observers could see each succeeding stroke was growing weaker. All the time Marshal Foch was awaiting his opportunity. When he turned on the enemy he did so in a rapid and bewildering manner. The counter stroke at the Marne, when the enemy was in the middle of an offensive, was brilliantly executed. He drove in the flank of the attacking army, threatened to cut off the salient that had been created and within twenty-four hours he had wrested from the Germans the initiative, which had been lost to the Allies for almost four months.

The subsequent blows delivered by the Allied armies between the Oise and Somme, between Arras and Albert, the forcing back of the Germans to their old Hindenburg positions, and finally beyond these so-called impregnable field fortifications, and the extension of the offensive until it embraced the whole front from Lorraine to the sea, showed master strategy. Marshal Foch, when he assumed supreme command, proved at once his ability to handle huge masses of men on a wide front. All previous efforts to convert the war into one of movement on the Western front had failed since the battle of the Marne, because there was no leader with the authority and possessing the necessary genius to grasp the situation as a whole. Marshal Foch has never regarded war as an exact science. He has realised that the developments of science have increased the necessity for mental and moral effort. He is a philosopher as well as a fighter. All his theories have been built up on three fundamentals—preparation, the formation of a mass and the multiplication of this mass in use. How he brought these fundamentals into practical use is exemplified by the fighting of the last four months of the war. He is rapid, precise and logical. He has translated the philosophy in his composition into action. When he opened his offensive of the Marne last July he knew he was about to inflict overwhelming defeat on Germany. If no armistice had come and Marshal Foch had been permitted to see the military results of his genius, it is now apparent Germany would have been forced to capitulate in the field before the end of the present year. But, although the crowning accomplishment of his military genius was forestalled by the political collapse of Germany, he did enough to establish his fame for all time. He did everything; for his single mind, more than any other individual factor, was responsible for the end of the war. The armies of Macedonia and Italy, as well as the forces on the Western front, responded to his direction at the chosen moments. Never once did failure threaten any single undertaking when Marshal Foch had made up his mind. He is a simple soldier, unostentatious, and he is continually trying to efface himself. It will be noted that in all the triumphal entries being made into the different cities of France, of Alsace-Lorraine and of Belgium Marshal Foch so far has not participated. Undoubtedly the Government will insist on his doing so before long, but the manner in which he keeps himself in the background is typical of the first soldier of the war. The place which history will assign him in military annals will be in the foremost ranks. Never before has a leader been called upon to exercise so much imagination, to control such vast bodies of men and to react so quickly after such a tremendous offensive as that of the Germans, which it would have been supposed would have meant exhaustion to both groups of combatants.

THE ALBERNI BY-ELECTION

Major R. J. Burde has announced he will be an independent candidate in the Alberni by-election. The contest will be held some time before the opening of the next session of the Legislature, at least there is very good reason why it should be, because Alberni has suffered in recent years through non-representation in the house. Major Burde would make an active, progressive and hard working member. Although beyond the military age, and with a family, he volunteered for service in the war, and speedily showed he was of the stuff of which soldiers are made. His services at the front were recognized. He has come home, invalided after a strenuous period of duty during which he won the Military Cross.

Major Burde is one of the pioneers of the Alberni district and has been a resident of Port Alberni almost since that prosperous little community sprang into existence. All his interests and hopes are centered there. He knows the constituency and its requirements. He is an enthusiastic believer in its great resources and wishes to see it become one of the most progressive and populous districts of Vancouver Island. Whether as Mayor of Port Alberni or as proprietor of The Port Alberni News he has always been in the forefront of all movements which would tend to promote West Coast development. His ability and experience, coupled with a forceful personality, equip him admirably for a seat in the Provincial Legislature when we take these in conjunction with his knowledge of the needs of the constituency and his enthusiasm regarding its assured future. What the political parties may deem the proper course in the coming by-election is a matter for their own judgment. From our standpoint we would like to see Major Burde returned unopposed. At this time there should be a disposition among our electors to give returned soldiers a full opportunity to solve the problems which have arisen out of the war in which they imperilled their lives. So far we have only one such member in the Provincial Legislature and we can do with a good few more.

GERMAN PSYCHOLOGY

"Tell them they are coming to England; that will be enough." Admiral Beatty's reply to the commander of the German fleet that surrendered, when the latter wanted the leader of the Grand Fleet to sign a document stipulating the German crews would not be ill-treated, was typical of the man and his abiding faith in the country for which he, and the great instrument he commands, have fought so magnificently. German militarism never believed in the law of chivalry, the word of honor, or the scrap of paper. The monstrous edifice incarnating the doctrine of might which the ex-Emperor reared around his throne could not realise other nations are not inspired with the spirit of revenge. The power that now controls German affairs has inherited the psychology that deformed the militaristic soul. Its hatred for Britain is no less pronounced, but this time it is the hatred of impotence.

Admiral Beatty's phrase, if taken to heart, may teach the Germans a lesson and one in which they stand sorely in need. What conception of humanity has a government that releases upwards of 100,000 prisoners and tells them—in their rags and poverty, unarmed and without money—to march through a hostile country on their way to the frontier and freedom? This is what the new Government of Germany has done with the released British prisoners. It was a representative of that Government that wanted a written undertaking from Admiral Beatty promising the interned German sailors would not be ill-treated. The German treatment of British prisoners, both before and since the revolution, shows there is no repentance in the hearts of the German people for their manifold crimes. A London Times correspondent who has just returned from a trip through Western Germany reports hatred of Britain is universal and that the idea of revenge is implanted in all hearts. If it is true that the German nation intends neither to forgive nor forget it will be necessary to meditate well before that country is admitted to any League of Nations. A world effort must be made to change the viewpoint in Germany, to disillusion the people completely of any idea of world dominance or any conception they belong to a race of supermen. They must be taught the value of peace. The task may occupy a few generations, or more, but the spirit of revenge must be exorcised from the international sphere or else there cannot be permanent peace. One of the greatest tasks before the Peace Conference will be the nature of the propaganda that must be undertaken before the world is prepared for a League of Nations. If that ideal is conceived with force as its basis it is foredoomed to failure.

RUSSIA AND PEACE

Prince Lvoff, who was Prime Minister in the first Government that followed the overthrow of the Czar in Russia, pleads his country should be represented at the Peace Conference. His plea is unnecessary, for every delegate of the Allied Governments to that gathering will be the whole-souled friend of his great country in this time of her dire distress. One of the main problems to be considered at the Peace Conference will be the restoration of order and the establishment of a representative government in Russia. Every law of humanity cries out for the overthrow of the murderous regime now in power at Moscow. The Bolsheviki, says Prince Lvoff, promised Russia peace, bread and liberty. They gave never-ceasing war, hunger without precedent and a bloody tyranny hitherto unknown. Their creed is perpetual revolution; their aim universal social eruption. Food is distributed by a secret service system which cuts it off from all who are antagonistic to the Bolsheviki, who, at the same time, are executing their prisoners so as to conserve foodstuffs.

A system of government by extermination cannot be allowed to persist in the world. A new pogrom is promised in Petrograd. If all that has passed will not rouse the Allies to sweeping action then the events of this Winter will, for they promise to be the most dreadful the world has ever known. A mad dog is loose on earth. He must be destroyed if civilization is to continue. Those who betrayed and sold Russia are seeking to do the same with every nation. Lenine and Trotzky, and Zinovoff and Peters, are striving their utmost to bring about the end of freedom and democracy everywhere. The miserable role enacted by the Bolsheviki is at once a terror and a warning to all. Bolshevism means famine, anarchy and social ruin. Every right-thinking man throughout the world should unite to eradicate the plague which has fastened itself upon Russia and which is striving, through the cloaca of humanity, to poison the sources of well being in every clime.

"Trade in Meat Should Flourish"

Sir,—The dispatch from Ottawa, under the above heading, published in The Colonist this morning is very interesting reading, but to British Columbians how much more so would have been one with the caption, "Trade in Lumber Should Flourish!" All Canadians are interested in the growth of Canadian trade, but each section is or should be more particularly interested in the development of its own resources. Of cattle we have practically none for export, but of lumber we have one of the largest supplies in the world. Lumber is a drug in the market here in British Columbia at the present time, while it is, or was, worth probably over $400 per thousand feet in France. A well known Victorian states that he was offered $375 per thousand for some millions of feet delivered at a French port early in the war, and the cost of lumber has been going up ever since. Rebuilding in the devastated portions of Europe and town-planning and new housing schemes in England and Scotland will require even more lumber than the demands of the fighting Allies, which called into being the Canadian Forestry Corps. In pre-war times Great Britain imported more than three-quarters of her lumber requirements, largely from Sweden and Russia. It is quite possible that when the Bolsheviki get through with "renovating" the erstwhile heritage of the Czars that Russia will require most of her own lumber for repairs, while it is hardly conceivable that Canadian lumber should not now have a sentimental preference over the products of Sweden's forests. So that, in so far as a market in Europe is concerned, it is safe to say that for some years to come the future of the lumber industry is assured. But it must be borne in mind that, for obvious reasons, no other portion of the Dominion of Canada is so particularly interested in the lumber situation now obtaining in Europe as is British Columbia. This latter fact should be allowed to sink into the minds of our own people and should never be lost sight of. The scant courtesy, to say the least, with which a deputation of some of our leading citizens, representing the commercial interests of this Island, received at the hands of certain visiting Dominion Ministers recently, and the still more recent complaint of the salmon canners of the Province in connection with commandeered salmon, shows only too plainly the unfortunate position which Western interests occupy in the minds of Ottawa authorities. So that it seems certain if any headway is to be made in developing one of British Columbia's greatest industries that development must be the results of our own work—not only manufacturing the lumber but shipping it in our own ships and selling it ourselves. For it must be borne in mind that the lumbering industry in Europe today is to all intents and purposes a magnificent monopoly, and it will require a crowbar to pry anything loose. Our own local Government, and they alone, are capable of handling the situation. A commission was sent to Europe some six months or so ago by the Provincial Government to look into the lumbering situation overseas, which was a wise and timely step, but why not call a meeting of the mill men, the owners of lumber camps and all representative people interested in that industry and have the Government lay before them before it is too late some programme for active work? Our lands must be cleared before they can be made productive; the timber is worth about $1.50 per thousand feet as it stands, while in Europe it is costing the user probably $400 per thousand feet. Surely the difficulties of bringing buyers and sellers together under such conditions are not insurmountable—and over and above all there is the resulting work that would then be available for the returned men.

1919 Council

Sir,—There has appeared in the press quite recently, one or more suggestions as to the necessity of taking the above matter in hand now, and, judging from past experience of the composition of the various councils the voters have selected, it does not require more than the average amount of common sense to come to the conclusion that we have had anything but the best men in the community to run our business. The blame rests on the apathy of the people, the men we have placed in authority have probably gone the limit of their best, but as is now proved beyond question, it has been a sorry best, therefore, it will be a wise move to get busy right away. The appeal to ten men in our city to give their services for one year free of emolument may seem an impertinence, but do not thousands of men in the Old Land, where they are equally busy and have equal or bigger responsibilities, serve their towns and cities for nothing more than the honor attached to the office they fill, and I am sure there will be no difficulty in inducing the same class of man in Victoria to act. It is the opinion of many that the curse of our civic administration is the payment for such services, and there never was a time in the history of Victoria when there was more need of such men—men who have the courage of their convictions and who are not afraid to speak them without payment.

FRANK BURRELL.

Beverley Place, Victoria, B.C. Nov. 22, 1918.

Renaming the Island

Sir—In common with others of the British Columbia colony, here and at Ottawa, I have been both interested and amused by the various letters appearing from time to time in the Victoria newspapers on the proposed rechristening of Vancouver Island. We have noted the suggestions of Douglas, Haig, Currie, Quadra, Victory, Meares, etc., with some astonishment that no one apparently has as yet put forward the name which I should think would instantly spring to the lips in such a connection—McBride!

Is it because of natural shame in delayed repentance? For I know of no parallel in political history for the case of poor Dick.

A native-born British Columbian, with all the big-heartedness, the broad-mindedness, the sunny optimism and the chivalrous courtesy and generosity of the traditional West, the man who was the youngest premier in any British colony or dominion, who brought order out of political chaos in his beloved home province, whose kindliness and inability to think ill of anyone provoked his financial and political ruin, he is today held in affectionate regard by the best men of England and by the leaders of Canadian thought and public policy as quite the ablest man our West has as yet produced.

His latter days in office found him the target for abuse, malignment, misrepresentation, the shafts of self-seeking political climbers missing en bloc both his mental and his heart qualities. He was charged as a thief because he sensed the menace to Vancouver and Victoria cities from German naval power at the war's outbreak and boldly took the requisite immediate steps to checkmate the enemy, for which he has received the due acknowledgment and the sincerest thanks of the Home authorities. He was accused of having "made his pile" through certain railway deals and withdrawn to London to enjoy his millions. He was charged with having betrayed the Province to the railway interests, thereby inviting British Columbia's ruin.

History will record that fundamentally his railway policies were sound under obtaining conditions. As a matter of simple fact, every step in the development of his railway policies was first submitted to and endorsed by the people at the polls, and any advantage that may have been taken of the Province by the railways was not within his cognizance and occurred through inefficiency or carelessness on the part of subordinates, to whom he necessarily looked for the checking of details and who failed to measure up to their responsibilities.

Sir Richard McBride died quite as much of a broken heart as from the stated cause of his untimely end. He died the victim of betrayal at the hands of those for whom he had done most, politically and personally. Their reward of his trust and his constant kindliness was the dagger of the puny Brutus and the traitorous tongue of the Judas. He had given his all to and for British Columbia. He had given it place in the estimation and thought of the Empire it would never otherwise have held. He died, deserted by almost all of those for whom he had done so much, misrepresented and slandered to the last, blind for dreary weeks, pauperized and virtually alone in a land of strangers.

The tragedy of Dick McBride's career and its end is the most pitiful individual tragedy of Canadian history.

Is it not time that his native Province should make a beginning at least in fixing responsibility for that tragedy and in doing deserved honor to a great man's memory and to his incessant efforts in British Columbia's behalf?

Death of Former Judge

CHATHAM, N.B., Nov. 22.—Hon. William Johnson, former county court judge, died at his home near here yesterday, aged 92 years. He was, perhaps, the oldest member of the legal profession in Canada.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist November 24, 1868).

Reciprocity Is Proposed—The propriety of extending the provisions of the new Reciprocity Treaty now in course of preparation at Washington over this Colony is being urged upon the attention of the Home Government by British Columbians resident in London and others having important interests here.

Government Buildings—Some sensible improvements are being made in the wings of the different offices at the Government Buildings. The old flat roofs covered with tin, which were always leaky, have been raised and shingled. The alterations, besides being really necessary, greatly improve the general appearance of the Buildings.

SIBERIAN TROOPS REVIEWED YESTERDAY

Major-General John Hughes, Inspector-General for Western Canada, Inspects Force Stationed at Willows.

The whipping wind that blew across the parade ground yesterday morning at the Willows put an extra briskness into the movements of the C.E.F. (Siberia) troops when they were reviewed by Major-Gen. John Hughes, Inspector-General for Western Canada. Some two hundred people were in the grand stand to watch the interesting ceremony, which occupied about half an hour.

The general salute was given as the General, accompanied by Major-Gen. R. G. Edwards Leckie, C.M.G., G.O.C., M.D. No. 11, Colonel J. Duff Stewart, Lieut.-Colonel Hugh Major (commandant a tthe Willows camp), Major F. W. Howland and Staff-Captain E. Cay, A.D.C. to General John Hughes.

There was an inspection of the lines first, after which the officers returned to the saluting base to await the march past. This was taken first in column, then in quarter column, and afterwards in review order, the forces moving with precision and briskness, and presenting a smart and generally fit appearance which earned them general praise.

Brigadier-General H. C. Bickford was in charge of the parade, Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Swift commanding the 259th, Lieut.-Colonel F. C. Jamieson the 260th. The 16th Field Ambulance detachment (Lieut.-Colonel Warren, O.C.) and the Machine Gun company were on the field also.

The inspection concluded with three cheers for the King, called by General Hughes, and vigorously responded to, and three cheers for General Hughes, called for by Brigadier-General Bickford, who is in command of the Brigade of which the Siberian troops at the Willows constitute a part.

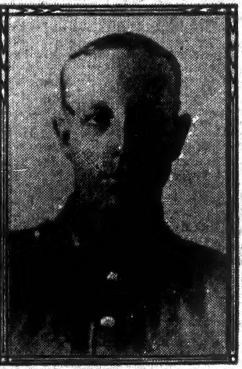
AURORA BOREALIS SEEN IN VICTORIA

Brilliant Display of Northern Lights Reached its Finest Stage About Two Hours After Midnight.

A striking display of the aurora borealis was visible from Victoria on Friday night. The phenomenon was visible for several hours, but was at its best between two and three o'clock in the morning, when it assumed the "ideal" form as it is to be observed in the more northerly latitudes.

A dusky purplish cloud appeared in the northern heavens, at intervals in the form of an arc a few degrees above the horizon and stretching from east to west, at other times in detached masses, but always with a brightly diffused luminous edge glowing like the reflection from some hidden flame beyond. The fact that simultaneously with this brilliant apparition there raged a high wind gave the impression at times of a cloud of fire rolling before the storm, pierced at intervals by tongues of greenish-yellow light, sometimes needle-like in sharpness and reaching right into the zenith of the heavens, at other times tremulous and widely-diffused. For intervals of three or four minutes the display would be brilliant, and would then fade into obscurity, bursting out anew and with gathered potency after the dispersed cloud had been reformed. Dr. R. K. Young, who was making observations at the Astrophysical Observatory on Friday night, recorded the appearance of the phenomenon.



GUNNER W. J. TRICKEY

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Trickey, of Prospect, who was killed in action November 1, 1918. He joined the Fifth Regiment, C.G.A., in September, 1914, and went overseas in December, 1915. For a time he was doing clerical work in England, but reached France in March last. He was a native son, and was educated in the public schools here.

INFLUENZA IN KOOTENAY

Quarantine Restrictions Enforced There an Effort to Prevent Spread of Epidemic.

The spread of the Spanish influenza epidemic in the Kootenay section is reported in wires received from that district by the Provincial Health authorities. Yesterday morning a request from Crawford Bay reached Dr. Young, Provincial Health Officer, asking that quarantine restrictions be enforced there for a period of three weeks. The requisite order-in-council was passed by the Government. Similar precautions for the Lardo and Duncan Valley sections were also ordered.

Because of the illness of Dr. Bavis, who has been attending the Indians and whites down with the epidemic in the Sidney section, it was found necessary to secure other medical assistance, and Dr. Chalmers will visit Sidney and give attention to the cases there. Dr. Bavis, who has been at James Island and has been making daily trips to Sidney and district, has been taken down with the malady.

DR. KING RETURNS ILL

Minister, Who Assisted in Fighting Influenza Epidemic at Cranbrook, Confined to Home.

Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, who arrived in Victoria on Friday afternoon from the Mainland, is confined to his home suffering from Spanish influenza. He has been in his home riding of Cranbrook for the past three weeks assisting the local medical authorities in fighting the ravages of the epidemic, and his assistance was greatly appreciated by the medical profession there, which was overworked in caring for the many afflicted with the malady.

Dr. King is progressing favorably, it was stated at his home yesterday, and his many friends hope he will soon be about again.

TO SUBSCRIBERS

On and after December 1 of this year The Colonist will be delivered by carrier at 75 cents per month. At the time the price of this newspaper was increased from 50 to 60 cents per month full consideration was given to the necessity of making the subscription rate 75 cents if delivery expenses were to be met. It was then decided that, for the duration of the war, the loss involved would be borne rather than that subscribers should be asked to shoulder the burden.

Under the new arrangement advance subscriptions at 60 cents per month will not be accepted for more than one month from this date. All news dealers will be charged at the rate of $25 per thousand copies, with no "return" privileges.

The Colonist is not increasing its price through any desire to make money out of its subscribers. The decision has been reached with a view to preventing any further losses in delivering the paper, and it has been arrived at because of conditions over which we have no control.

Killed at Beamsville Camp

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., Nov. 23.—Lieut. T. E. Logan was killed at 11:30 yesterday morning in an airplane accident at the R. A. F. School of Gunnery here. Next of kin (father) is Alexander Logan, Woodside, New Glasgow, N. S.

SHOP EARLY

It Is Only About Four Weeks to Christmas
NOT VERY FAR AWAY, IS IT?

Anticipating a large demand for GOOD MUSIC —and consequently

The NEW EDISON

—and foreseeing a shortage of factory supply, large orders were placed in the Spring for our year's requirements. These orders were filled and YOU can therefore rely upon seeing at our store a complete and representative stock of all styles of embracing the following period models: Adam, Moderne, Chippendale, Sheraton, William and Mary.

The New Edison and Amberolas

Prices $62 and Up

Advice to shop EARLY is in order that our staff may be able to render you the SERVICE we aim to give and which you expect; and rushes at the last minute, in spite of the best organization on earth, often prevent customers receiving the attention they should.

It takes only a few minutes to decide on a NEW EDISON, but it takes time to make a careful selection of RE-CREATIONS, so SHOP EARLY and we will give the SERVICE.

Watch the Papers for Specials This Week

We carry a complete stock of Columbias from $30.00 up.

To Our Out-of-Town Customers

Remember that our Mail Order Dept. is at your service six days a week.

We ship goods to all local points, and pay freight on all orders of $10.00 or over, providing there is not too large a proportion of Flour, Feed and Sugar.

We also pay the highest market price for all farm produce, but it must be of No. 1 quality.

In ordering goods, please remit sufficient money to cover all charges, and we will return any balance with invoice of goods.

We have the same price for everybody and orders will receive the same careful attention as if you came to select your own goods.

Classes in Navigation—Now that the ban is lifted, the Boys' Naval Brigade, Navy League of Canada, will resume its classes on Tuesday and Friday evenings at 7 o'clock in the J. B. A. A. Building. Capt. Jones-Evans will also resume his classes in navigation for the men of the Coastal Service. These are held on Mondays and Thursdays at 7 p. m. upstairs in the J. B. A. A. Building.

Army and Navy Veterans—A general meeting of the Victoria Branch Army and Navy Veterans in Canada will be held on Tuesday evening next, 26th inst., at 8 o'clock, in the Belmont Block, Humboldt St. entrance. Owing to the curtailment of all meetings for the past few weeks a considerable amount of important business will require the members' attention and a full attendance is therefore asked for.

City and District in Brief

Roof Fires—Two roof fires yesterday required the attention of the fire brigade, one at 1010 View Street and the other at the Point Ellice boathouse. Little damage was done to either of the premises.

Esquimalt Sailors' Club—The Sunday evening song service at the Sailors' Club, Esquimalt, will be resumed this evening at 8:30. Vocalist, Mr. Povah; speaker, Rev. H. T. Habershon. Sailors, soldiers and their friends cordially invited. On Wednesday afternoons intercession services are held, commencing at 3 p. m.

Juvenile Choir Rehearsals—The rehearsals of the Juvenile Choir of the Connaught Seamen's Institute will be resumed on Monday afternoon next at 4 o'clock. Curwen's operetta (G. H. Cowley) will be taken in hand. All members and children who would wish to join are requested to be present.

Y. W. C. A. Vesper Service—This afternoon the last vesper service will be held by the Y. W. C. A. in the old Union Club Building. Miss Frances Reid will have charge and the old and new friends of the association are cordially invited to be present. Service at 4:30.

Jubilee Hospital W.A.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital, will take place at room 214 Pemberton Building, on Tuesday, at 2:30. A good attendance of members is asked for.

Donation to Blue Cross—The local committee has received a cheque for $15.00 from Miss E. Tregent, Vancouver. The Blue Cross fund is a permanent one, organized on the same lines as the Red Cross, and its help will be required for many months to come.

Will Hold Soldiers' Service—A special service for soldiers will take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., at which Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will speak. Mrs. MacDonald Fahey and Mr. Ernest Petch will sing, and after the service the ladies of the Red Triangle Committee will serve refreshments while a social hour is passed.

School Property Damaged—During the period of enforced closing of the city schools considerable damage was done to windows and other property. Yesterday complaint was made to the police that some 27 windows in the Victoria West School had been smashed, presumably by missiles thrown by boys.

Provincial Executive, I.O.D.E. — The provincial executive, I.O.D.E., will meet at the headquarters, Temple Building, tomorrow morning, the 25th inst., at 10:45 o'clock. It is hoped to arrange a further meeting of the executive to be held in Vancouver at an early date, due notice of which will be sent to all officers and councillors.

Daughters of Pity—The annual meeting of the Daughters of Pity will be held Monday evening, November 25, at the home of Miss Lovell, 1100 View Street, at 8 o'clock. It is expected that there will be a good attendance in view of the amount of business to be attended to, the election of officers, and the arrangements for the Christmas work at the hospital.

Resume Police Dances—After a suspension for six weeks owing to the Spanish influenza ban the Winter series of invitation dances being held by the members of the police department will be resumed tomorrow night at police headquarters, when a large atendance is looked for by the committee, which has spared no time or trouble in making the event a success.

Hospitals Auxiliary to Meet—The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary committee of the Red Cross to military convalescent Hospitals will be held on Tuesday morning next, the 26th inst., at 10:45 o'clock, at room 314, Pemberton Building. Owing to the ban there has been no meetings for some weeks and therefore all arrangements for Christmas and other important matters. A full representation of the delegates from the various societies is earnestly invited.

S.P.C.A. Bazaar—Owing to delays caused by the influenza ban, the bazaar advertised previously on behalf of the S.P.C.A., aided by the Blue Cross, will take the form of a Christmas sale. Within the next week intending donors are asked to kindly leave articles for sale at the Blue Cross room, Belmont House, where they will be sold, by courtesy of the Blue Cross Committee. It is hoped that a goodly sum will be raised during December in aid of the local S.P.C.A., which is greatly in need of funds.

Advise That Work be Continued—A meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association will be held in the course of a few days to consider a recommendation that it continue to work in harmony with the local branch of the G. W. V. A. This emanates from a gathering of the members of the Auxiliary which was held on Friday night to hear the explanation of the Executive Council of the local branch regarding the relations which exist between it and the Dominion organization. At that meeting the members present were offered the alternatives of giving the local branch the aid for which it was originally formed or disbandment. Those present decided that it would be better to continue the good work they performed during the past year.

MR. MELLOR INJURED WHEN MOTORS COLLIDE

His Car Rammed by Another at Dangerous Hillside-Quadra Corner, and Completely Overturned.

Badly cut about the head and suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, Mr. Fred Mellor, sign painter, is lying at the Royal Jubilee Hospital seriously injured, the result of a collision at 9 o'clock yesterday morning between his motor car and one driven by Mr. F. H. Stephenson, of Lake Hill, at the corner of Hillside Avenue and Quadra Street.

The corner at which the accident occurred is recognized as one of the most dangerous in the city for motor traffic, it being impossible for a driver coming west on Hillside Avenue to see a car approaching along Quadra Street from the south.

Mr. Mellor was coming downtown from his residence on upper Hillside Avenue, accompanied by a young lady, a neighbor, whom he was giving a lift downtown. On the way he stopped and picked up Detective Victor Heather, who was awaiting a street car to take him down to police headquarters.

PTE. E. J. LEWIS
Killed in action October 18. He left Victoria with the Royal Canadian Regiment in the spring of 1916, and had been on active service up to the time of his death. His mother lives in Prince Edward Island.

Rammed by Heavy Car

As Mr. Mellor drove across Quadra Street Mr. Stephenson's motor, a large and heavy machine, appeared bound north on that street. Neither motor, it was stated, was going at an excessive rate of speed and neither driver saw the other. Before Mr. Stephenson could lessen the speed of his car it rammed that of Mr. Mellor, the force of the impact overturning the latter. The three occupants were pinned beneath, but Detective Heather, by a supreme effort, lifted the car up from the pavement sufficiently to permit the young girl to crawl out and to allow him to grasp Mr. Mellor's coat and pull him from under the machine. The girl was not hurt and Detective Heather escaped with some scratches on the face and a torn overcoat, but Mr. Mellor in striking the pavement sustained a long gash on the head and was knocked unconscious. The motor was badly damaged, though that driven by Mr. Stephenson suffered little damage.

Passers-by helped in carrying Mr. Mellor into a nearby drug store, whence the police motor ambulance was summoned and the injured man taken to police headquarters, where he was attended by Dr. Bechtel and thence conveyed to the hospital, where his injuries were more fully examined. Ten stitches were put in the scalp wound, and it was feared at first that Mr. Mellor might have sustained a fracture of the skull, but reports last night stated he was not as badly injured as at first thought.

Had Narrow Escape

Two hours later, at 11:55 o'clock, Mrs. Timms, of Strawberry Vale, had a narrow escape from serious injury and possible death when her motor, in which she was driving on Douglas Street, ran into an electric light standard near Discovery Street. The strong wind blew off her hat and in attempting to catch it she let go the steering wheel. The car swerved and ran into the curb, striking the standard and breaking it off near the ground. In falling it smashed through the cover of the motor, but in such a way that it was braced against the radiator of the car and its descent was stopped just as it grazed Mrs. Timms' forehead as she was thrown forward against the steering wheel. An inch further and the iron standard would have crushed in her skull. As it was, Mrs. Timms was badly bruised about the body by the impact with the wheel and she had to be assisted out of the car. She was taken to police headquarters in the police motor ambulance by Constable Clare and Motorcycle Constable Palmer and attended by Dr. Higgins, afterwards being taken to her home by the police.

PTE. WM. JAS. PATTERSON
Son of Mrs. Sarah Patterson, 544 Hillside Avenue, who died of pneumonia at 32 Casualty Clearing Station on October 28. He left here with the 67th Western Scots in March, 1916, and transferred a year ago to the 102nd Battalion. He attended local schools. A brother, Sergt. H. M. Patterson, of the 2nd C.M.R., is now in England.

MAYOR WILL URGE TACOMA SERVICE

Capt. Troup Says There Is Little Possibility of Getting the Princess Margaret for B. C. Service—Several Reasons.

Now that peace has returned Mayor Todd is again taking up with the Canadian Pacific Railway the proposal to establish regular steamship service between Victoria and Tacoma direct. The Mayor will ask Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B. C. Coast Service, what the possibilities are of placing a steamer in this service at an early date.

About a year ago the matter was brought before the C. P. R. It was shortly after the army cantonment was established at American Lake, and it was felt that the business between this port and Tacoma would warrant the project.

PTE. ROBERT FLEMING
Who was called up on August 4, 1914, with the 88th Fusiliers, sent to Banfield Cable Station, and in October, 1914, joined the 30th Battalion. He went overseas in February, 1915, and reached France in May the same year. In June, 1916, he joined the 3rd Tunnelling Co., was severely wounded in the head, and on July 25 was returned to England "gassed." Since his return to France in September last year right up to the time he was returned to Canada recently he remained on duty.

Capt. J. W. Troup told The Colonist last night that there was small prospect of securing the Princess Margaret for service on this coast. The Margaret has been operating steadily since the war began in the North Sea as a mine-sweeper, and it is reported that she would have to be almost entirely rebuilt before she would be in condition to carry passengers in these waters. Again, since the sinking of the Princess Irene the Margaret has no possible running mate, and, according to Capt. Troup, this situation would seriously work against the efficient operation of the Margaret. Capt. Troup does not think the business offering at present would warrant the introduction of boats belonging to the Margaret type. Changes in the service may be made, however, during the course of the next month.

SICKNESS HANDICAPS TELEPHONE SERVICE

One-fifth of the entire staff of girls employed in Victoria as operators by the British Columbia Telephone Co. were yesterday unable to report for duty on account of influenza and as a consequence much extra work and a great increase in the hours of service has fallen on the members of the staff who have been successful in withstanding the epidemic.

The local situation has not yet become as serious as it was recently in Vancouver, where the company found it necessary to call through the press for volunteer experienced operators, and although the result of the Vancouver experiment in recruitment was highly pleasing, it is hoped by the local officials that it will not be necessary to make a similar call here, as the type of the disease which has handicapped the city's telephone service is not severe.

OBITUARY NOTICES

The funeral of Pte. Benjamin Mitchell, whose death occurred at Work Point Barracks on the 20th inst., took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Pte. Mitchell was a member of the 11th Garrison Regiment, stationed at Work Point Barracks. The remains were conveyed to Ross Bay Cemetery on a gun carriage and an escort and firing party attended. The pallbearers were: Ptes. D. J. Devine, F. B. McSwain, C. J. Doyle and W. E. Sellers.

The death of Lillian, wife of Mr. John Bowcott, occurred yesterday afternoon at her home, 1510 Blanshard Street. Mrs. Bowcott was 33 years of age, born in Manitoba and a resident of Victoria for the past ten years. She is survived by, besides her husband, six children, of this city, and two brothers in Winnipeg, and one sister in Brandon. The remains are reposing at the Sands Funeral Chapel pending funeral arrangements.

The death occurred on November 22 at the Chinese Hospital, of Young Tai Lin, aged 38 years, a resident of Victoria for the past eight years, late residence Fisgard Street. Deceased is survived by his widow and one son. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Interment will be made at the Chinese Cemetery.

The funeral of Gee Hong will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 at the Sands Funeral Chapel. Fifteen minutes later service will be conducted at the Chinese Methodist Church, Fisguard Street. The late Gee Hong was the chief cook on the ill-fated Sophia, was 32 years of age and is survived by, besides his widow, two daughters attending the Oriental School in this city. He lately resided at 2016 Blanshard Street. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

SIGNALLER HAROLD M. PEARCE
Son of Mrs. Pearce, of 1214 Oscar Street. He was killed on November 5 while on signalling duty. He left in May, 1917, with an artillery draft under Lieut. Fullerton, for Petawa, afterwards going overseas to train at Witley. He left England for France in March last. He was a student at the High School when war broke out, and went overseas with an artillery draft.

The funeral of Mrs. Sue Seki, of 2721 Bridge Street, took place at 11 o'clock yesterday, from the Sands Funeral Chapel.

Thomas Staples died yesterday at his home in Saanich at the age of 71. He had been a resident in this district for the past ten years. Besides his widow he is survived by two daughters and a son residing here, a son in England and a daughter in Seattle. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Tuesday from the Sands Funeral Chapel.

Freda Lennis, wife of Harry Lennis, died at the Isolation Hospital on Friday at the age of 43. She was a native of Russia, and is survived by six children in addition to her husband. The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock on Monday from the B. C. Funeral Chapel.

The Spirit of Christmas

Christmas is the one time in the year when the generous impulses of humanity assert themselves to the utmost. Self is entirely forgotten, and everyone strives to make this festive season a joyous occasion for others. That is the real Spirit of Christmas. The giving of some token of esteem or affection is a time-honored custom.

To those in doubt as to what to give, the following list will suggest gift tokens that will be appreciated this Christmas—and for many Christmases to come:

Steinway Pianos
Nordheimer Pianos
Cecilian Pianos
Gerhard Heintzman Pianos
Mendelssohn Pianos
Lesage Pianos

So confident are we of the superior qualities of these instruments, that we give a double guarantee with each piano sold—the maker's guarantee and the guarantee of the House of Fletcher Bros., who have sold pianos in Victoria for the past thirty years. Never before have we had so many beautiful models on display in our warerooms as can be seen today.

INTERMEDIATE SOCCER

The Victoria Military Hospital soccer team won its first match in the intermediate league when it defeated the Garrison intermediate team by 3 goals to 0.

The other intermediate game was won by Foundation from Yarrows by 5 to 1.

At an informal meeting held at the close of the first-mentioned game Pte. Travis was chosen captain of the Hospital team and Sergt. Gutteridge, of Resthaven, deputy captain.

FOUNDATION WIN RUGBY GAME FROM UNIVERSITY

Foundation, 5; University, 3; was the score at the end of the Rugby game played at the University School yesterday afternoon between the University School and Foundation teams. Heggie I scored the University School's try in the first half, the Foundation's try being made by Sprinkling and converted by Honeychurch.

HOCKEY DELEGATES MEET ON FRIDAY

Plans for Coming P.C.H.A. Season Will be Then Determined — Plenty of Players Will be Available.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23.—Whether the Pacific Coast Hockey Association will operate this season with three or four clubs will be determined in Vancouver next Friday, November 29, when the eighth annual meeting will be held. President Frank Patrick has issued a call for the delegates to gather here next week, and it is expected that Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and Victoria will be represented.

Plans for the season will be discussed, officers elected and the date for the opening games decided. The first contests will probably be scheduled early next January.

President Patrick anticipates no difficulty lining up players for the championship race. He says that the brand of hockey displayed will be quite up to the standard of former season whether only three or four clubs are competing for the title.

Kieckhefer Wins Again

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Augie Kieckhefer, world's champion three-cushion billiardist, successfully defended his title last night by defeating Robert Cannefax, former champion, in their three-night match, 150 to 106, in 147 innings. The champion now has defended the title successfully five times since he won it last February. Cannefax won last night's closing frame, 54 to 50, in 65 innings.

Will Go to Wilhelmshaven

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A British squadron is going to Wilhelmshaven, The Daily Mail says it understands, to take over the German ships which have not yet left there to be surrendered to the Allies. The German ships which surrendered Thursday sailed from the Firth of Forth Friday for Scapa Flow, Northern Scotland.

WILL PUT BOXING UNDER NEW CONTROL

Meeting Will be Held Tuesday to Form an Association to Make the Ring Sport Self-Supporting.

Prominent Victoria boxing enthusiasts will endeavor on Tuesday night to launch a movement which if successful will entirely change the conditions which have hitherto governed amateur boxing in Canada. At the V.I.A.A. club rooms, Duck Block, Broad Street, on the night in question, a meeting will be held for the purpose of forming an amateur boxing association. The organization is intended to be formed on the same lines as the associations governing amateur boxing in England, France and Australia. In fact, amateur boxing is to be made self-supporting—to be placed in the same category as rugby, soccer and hockey.

Not the least interesting feature of Teusday night's meeting will be an address by "Darkey" Daniels, the well known boxer, sporting writer and referee. Daniels' presence in Victoria at present is highly auspicious, as he can give local fans the benefit of his experiences back East, where he was instrumental in forming a boxing association which practically controlled amateur boxing there. For quite a time the amateur union refused to recognize the association, but finally they were forced to acknowledge it. The war, of course, has turned things topsy-turvy, but it is expected that the association will shortly be revived in the East.

Amateur conditions, will, of course, strictly prevail under the new regime, but the Amateur Athletic Union will be relieved of the reins of government, if the proposed association is put on a firm footing.

NAVAL CADETS WIN SECOND RUGBY GAME

Score Eighteen Points to Nil Against the V.I.A.A. Intermediate Team—Fine Kicks by Pentelow.

The second meeting of the intermediate Rugby teams of the Royal Naval College and the V.I.A.A. resulted in an even easier victory for the naval cadets than at the first meeting, when they won with a margin of three points.

Yesterday they had the better of the contest all through, showing a better knowledge of the game than their opponents and far superior combination, the result being that the Naval College won by 18 points (one placed goal, two tries, one dropped goal from field and one dropped goal from free kick) to nothing.

There was a stiff wind blowing down the field and the V.I.A.A. had it at their backs for the first half of the game. Right at the start they made a good rush down to the naval line, but the ball was speedily away again and it was not very long before Roy crossed the line for the Naval College's first try, the kick at goal failing. Nothing further resulted for a considerable time, though the naval backs got away for several good passing runs; their fielding of the ball and kicking was better than that of the V.I.A.A. backs and their forwards were better at following up and keeping the ball at their feet. Richardson got across for the second try, and this time Pentelow made no mistake with the kick at goal, bringing the score to 8 points to nil, where it remained until the half-time whistle went.

In the second half, with the wind at their backs, it was expected that the Naval College would pile up a score, but the V.I. boys deserve great credit for the way they stuck to their guns. They were on the defensive the major portion of this half, but were tackling well for the most part and holding the scrums better. Their three-quarter line suffered from the absence of Grubb and Wilson; Lennie also was a much regretted absentee, but, although the V.I. three-quarters were unable to get going themselves, they were quick on the tackle, and the V.I. line was crossed only once during this half, Roy getting over after a number of scrummages near the line. The V.I. were, however, forced to touch down on a number of occasions. The rest of the points were added by two fine drop-kicks by Pentelow, one from a free kick and the other from the field.

The cadets showed considerable improvement since they were last in action at the Royal Athletic Park, and they found the V.I.A.A. weakened by the absence of several of their star performers. Although the score was one-sided, it was by no means an uninteresting game. W. H. Spalding refereed. The Naval College team was composed of Pentelow; Cundill, Roy, Ryall and Pickard; Richardson and Brock; Mitchell, Kingsley, Budden, Desbarats, Lee, Myers, Smith and McIntosh.

The following team represented the V.I.A.A.—Lineham; Matson, Robinson, Webster and Lineham; Streeter and Gropp; Bale, Andros, Ablet, Blythe, Riley, Kennedy and Bainbridge.

NORTHERN UNION RUGBY

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The recent games in the Northern Football Union resulted as follows: Bradford, 10; Dewsbury, 30. Leeds, 38; Hunslett, 0. Wigan, 26; Swinton, 3. St. Helens, 2; Barrow, 3.

COMPETITION CLOSE IN LEAGUE SOCCER

Game Between Wests and Fragments from France Ends in Scoreless Draw — Four Teams Whitewashed.

Scores continue to be small and competition close between the clubs in the senior soccer league.

The game between the Fragments and the Victoria Wests which took place yesterday afternoon at Beacon Hill ended in a scoreless draw, the splendid work of the backs on both sides being mainly responsible for the result.

With half a gale blowing across the field in the first half, the work of the forwards on both sides was somewhat ragged, but the Fragments showed the greater ginger and kept the game to a large extent in the West's end of the field. When it came to shooting, they were unable to make the requisite wind allowance, and their efforts generally went for naught, when a good shot was made, Shandley for the green-shirted Wests was fully equal to all which came to him.

There were occasions when the game went into the Fragments' preserve in this session of the contest, and though they were comparatively few and far between and short-lived when made, while the ball was hovering in the neighbourhood of Bruce's sanctuary, he had all he could do to keep it out of the net, the few chances which the Fragments' backs allowed the Wests being made the most of by excellently placed shots. One of these Bruce saved amid much applause by tipping the ball over the bar with a leaping two-handed punch.

All through the first half the game was played almost without foul or other error, but in the second half the whistle had to be used much more frequently, the anxiety of both sides to score leading to many little errors of play.

In the second session the wind went down and the play became much neater, but all through the game the strategy employed by both forward lines was more or less on the order of "Get the ball and run as far as you can with it." As a result the game was almost all the time well in the control of the defence players, who showed the only real football of the day. As the contest drew to a close the Fragments gathered themselves together and made many attacks on Shandley nad his helpers, and were looking for a break in the Wests' defence at any moment when the final whistle blew.

Wells, of H.M.S. Lancaster, refereed.

Garrison Beat Navy

An interesting game was played on the Canteen ground between the Garrison and the Navy, the result, 2-0 in favor of the Garrison being a true index of the play and the difference between the two teams. The Navy showed lack of practice and the Garrison did not play with as good combination at times as they might have done.

The game started with the wind favoring the sailors, but the gunners by good work got the first goal in a few minutes, Jones beating Jasper with a beauty. The game then settled down to ding-dong play, both sides taking their turn at the goal, but half time found the teams still battling with the score at 1-0.

The wind not being so bad in the second half, better combination was played by both teams and a really good game was seen, the Navy boys trying hard to equalize the score, but the fine work of the Garrison defence prevented them, and, after a good kick from the corner by Lloyd, Fillmore got in one of his not-to-be-stopped shots, which scored number two for the gunners. Mesher at half-back played a bang-up game, being on the ball all the time and spoiling many good pieces of work by the Navy forwards. The teams facing Referee Lockley were—

Garrison: Jelliman; Piggott and Beale; Mesher, Besterd and Buxton; Lloyd, Sollers, Fillmore, Rough and Jones.

Navy: Jasper; Borland and Rutter; Bell, Lacey and Clarke; McGillivray, Rose, Lifton, Masters and Cawthorne.

Yarrows Gets Win

From a spectator's point of view the game between Yarrows and James Island was very interesting, the final score being 2-0 in favor of Yarrows. Yarrows, winning the toss, chose to kick up the field and both teams started off very carefully, each watching the play of the other, but the strong wind blowing across the ground caused much misjudgment. Seven minutes after play started Kerley passed a nice one to Baker, who notched the first tally for Yarrows.

A few minutes later, Robertson, of James Island, got a nasty bump on his knee and Baker shot a beautiful goal, only to see the ball brought back for offside. Just before half-time, from a corner kick by Douglas, Unwin headed the ball in for the second and last goal of the match.

In the second half the play was mostly in favor of Yarrows. Douglas sent in a lovely shot, but was offside and nothing further resulted before the final whistle went. The James Island goalie played a wonderful game making many brilliant stops, though he played in hard luck, being put out several times, once by a team mate. Inglis, the James Island left back, also played a fine game. Charlie Brown distinguished himself for Yarrows and Ord and Bell, on the back line, made considerable difference to Yarrows' defence. Bains, having a bad hand, could not play. Lock refereed capably.

Lancasters Win Game

H.M.S. Lancaster added another win to their score of victories by defeating the I.M.B. by 3 goals to nothing.

German Royalties Affected

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 23.—Two hundred and seventy-eight persons have been affected by the dethronement or abdication of ruling houses in Germany, according to the Zeitung Am Mittag, of Berlin. Of this number thirty-three were of the royal Prussian House, and thirty-nine of the Bavarian reigning family.

MANUAL TRAINING

In these days when projects for establishing industries in Victoria are exciting interest and when shipbuilding operations are already assuming greater proportions than many of the citizens realise, it is worth while considering whether or not anything is being done in our schools to bring the boys into touch with the industrial movements of the time.

Are the lads who are growing up around us likely to look upon skilled manual labor, of whatever form, as an honorable calling, or must Victoria send to other parts of Canada, to Great Britain and to foreign countries not only for her workmen but for captains of industry?

Will the citizens of the next decade consider it beneath the dignity of British Columbia's capital to have a considerable proportion of the population men who earn their bread by the sweat of their brows? If not, will its workmen be intelligent and self-respecting as well as efficient?

It was in order to find a clue to the answer to these and similar questions that some enquiries were made as to what is being done in the Normal Training centres which form part of the educational equipment of the city. Unfortunately for the purpose of the enquirer, Mr. W. H. Binns, organizer of Manual Arts in the day schools and supervisor of night school classes, was out of town during the enforced holiday, but, by the courtesy of Mr. F. C. Pope, secretary of the schoolboard, and of Mr. D. S. Cameron, Mr. G. Anstey and Mr. A. H. Marrion, of the teaching staff, it was possible to gain some information as to the part in the education of the boys handwork occupies and to form some impression of the motives and ideals of the instructors.

By manual training it is generally understood the three years' course in woodwork upon which boys enter in the intermediate grade and continue till they have qualified for entrance to the High School. The successful completion of this course entitles a boy to a diploma, recognised throughout the Province.

Manual training—that is, hand-training, begins in the primary grade, where paper is the material employed to develop skill and to create a taste in color. Children a little older use cardboard as their medium, and many beautiful as well as useful articles are constructed by little hands. In this part of the course, Mr. John Kyle, the provincial organizer of technical education, states that Victoria children excel. Then comes the woodwork for the boys, while the girls take a course in the Household Arts.

Victoria, which began less than twenty years ago with one manual training centre, now has five, in which over nine hundred boys are trained. The oldest and largest is at the Boys' Central School, in charge of Mr. G. Anstey and Mr. F. W. Ball. More than three hundred pupils receive instruction at this centre, each teacher supervising at one time the work of some 40 boys for half a day a week.

Moss Street and Margaret Jenkins' Schools send pupils to this centre, for though the latter school has a suitable building it has no equipment for a Manual Training centre. Moss Street has neither room nor equipment. There are other reasons than loss of time why the plan of sending boys from their own school to another is to be deprecated, but the equipment of a centre is an expense which the school board has not felt justified in incurring at this time.

At the George Jay centre, the boys from Oaklands School, as well as those of the district, attend the Manual Training classes under the instruction of Mr. W. A. Plenderleith. Together the pupils number one hundred and sixty-five.

At the North Ward centre there are about the same number of pupils. Boys from Quadra Street, Burnside and some from Oaklands, as well as those from the big Douglas Street School, attend Mr. Cameron's classes.

In South Park one hundred and eighty-four boys fill the benches in the course of the week. Mr. A. H. Marrion, who took his first lessons in woodwork in the Victoria schools, and who has qualified for his chosen vocation in our own Province, teaches in this centre.

Mr. W. H. Binns, who, in addition to the instruction of eighty boys, supervises the teaching of manual arts in all the schools of the city, has charge of the centre in Victoria West.

Mr. D. S. Cameron has held his present position as teacher of Manual Training in the North Ward School for eight years. He was trained in Aberdeen, and had experience in the manual schools of Scotland before coming to Victoria. He is an enthusiast in his work and loves his boys. His affection is returned, and many a man in uniform has in the past four years saluted his old teacher and recalled the old school days. Others in various employments in the city, but who have grown out of his recollection, stop from time to time to renew the old friendship.

Mr. Cameron explained that a change had been made of recent years in the work done by the boys in the manual training classes. Formerly the models, excellent for the purposes of developing the powers of the boys, were of little use after that purpose had been served. This, it was thought, led to a lack of interest. Useful objects, it was considered, could be so designed as to fill as good a purpose educationally and would have the additional advantage of being of service afterwards. Mr. Cameron does not, however, believe in exhibitions of pupils' work. They, he contends, encourage superficial and showy production, instead of sound craftsmanship.

The careful planning and the exactness in measuring and fitting tend, in Mr. Cameron's opinion, to form stability of character. No pains is spared by the teacher in encouraging slow and backward pupils, and punishments are seldom if ever necessary where mind and body are alike active.

At the end of the course workers who have mastered the principles taught and acquired sufficient skill in the use of tools are allowed to purchase wood for themselves and to use the school equipment in making utensils, ornaments or pieces of furniture, first submitting their working drawings for the approval of the instructors. Last term, among an assortment of pieces of work of which older craftsmen need not have been ashamed, were a mahogany music cabinet and a writing desk, which were especially beautiful and well constructed. The one was made by Orion McGary, the other by Archie Clark, pupils of the North Ward School.

If the pupils who have spent two hours a week for three years learning the uses and value of the material with which they work and acquiring skill in fashioning it, have caught their teacher's enthusiasm and his pride in good workmanship, the time will have been well employed.

Mr. G. Anstey, who has taught in Victoria for five years, came from Coventry, a centre of beautiful craftsmanship of many kinds. Growing up in the Midlands and receiving part of his education in Birmingham, Mr. Anstey believes in the gospel of work. He protests, however, that it is no part of the design of manual training masters to teach boys the trade of carpentering. Their work is to turn out boys who will be ready if opportunity offers to learn trades, but who will do whatever work lies before them the better for the instruction and training they have received.

Boys in Mr. Anstey's classes are not subject to rigid discipline. At first, indeed, it is necessary to watch and guard the little boys lest they do harm to themselves, their neighbors, or tools or materials. But once they have learned how to work they are allowed to move about, to speak to one another or the teacher, so long as they do not hinder the work of the class or annoy others. The lads behave like men in a well-ordered workshop rather than like children in a classroom, but the noise is that of industry not of idleness. A result of this discipline was unexpectedly proved one day when the master acceded to the request of a senior class to allow them to go on with their work although he had been forced to spend the session elsewhere. Mr. Anstey was deeply gratified when, on his return, he found that his confidence in the honor and self-control of the boys had not been misplaced.

There is much to learn in a manual training class beside the use of the various tools. But these lessons are best received when given in response to an enquiry, or when ignorance of a fact or a principle has led the class or some member of it into error.

Besides the many interesting things about the various kinds of lumber and the trees from which they are made much geometry both plane and solid is taught in a practical way. Tools, too, furnish themes for many a talk on mechanical principles. But all this is by the way. The boys come to the centre to make things. Beginning with a plant stick or string winder they go on step by step till they have learned to construct objects which for them are difficult and complicated. By far the greater number the work is enjoyed. If three boys in a class of forty are found backword the proportion is unusual.

Sometimes a lad, who is dull at his books displays mechanical ability of a high order, making calculations quite correctly at his work which he could not set down on paper to save his life. Now and again the converse is true, and a brilliant student cannot be taught to use the tools. These, however, are exceptions. Greatly to his regret Mr. Anstey sees many of his best boys leaving school when they have qualified for High School, or sometimes before if they are older. Too many of these children take up some chance employment, forget much that they have learned, and when they grow to be men are still unfitted for permanent employment. An instance came to Mr. Anstey's notice, as night school teacher of a lad with a manual training diploma who had vainly sought for thre years to get employment in a plumber's shop. He finally got a job at the Sheet Metal Works and came to the night school to fit himself for a better position. Such boys would remain at school if a course was offered that appealed to their love of motion and mechanical pursuits. The old apprenticeship system is gone, and there is nothing to take its place in Victoria with boys whose bodies as well as minds must be active.

An incident which shows that manual training boys have warm hearts as well as busy hands was related by Mr. Anstey. At Christmas time one year, the lads from the Boys' School centre appealed to him to help them prepare a surprise for their teachers. They had been in the habit of making presents in the holiday season, and it occurred to the older boys that they could make something of far more value than they could afford to buy. Touched by their eagerness the master consented. Of course the little fellows wanted to follow the big boys' example. Accordingly, about four weeks before the holidays, all ordinary work was laid aside. The boys in Mr. Cunningham's room were ready with the wood for a writing desk, and things were so contrived that everyone had some part of it to make. At last, their eagerness to spend every spare minute, and some minutes that were not to spare, at the Normal training centre, led to enquiry, but Mr. Anstey was a good confederate, and the plot was not discovered till the time was ripe, when the astonishment and delight of their teacher was ample reward for their labor. According to their ability other classes made presents. A white enamelled dressing table, a smoking cabinet, a footstool, picture frames and book-ends were mementoes of that Christmos that will long be treasured by the teachers. If one suspects that more and better work was done and greater improvement made at the centre during those dark days of early Winter than in any month of the year, surely teacher and pupils were to be congratulated on the unpremeditated result.

Mr. Anstey is among those teachers who are working and planning for more organised sport among the boys of the public schools of Victoria. Fair play, as well as honest work, he believes to be part of the preparation necessary to good citizenship.

Our glimpse at the work of the Manual Training classes serves to show that the boys there learn something of the value of labor and many things beside that will tend to make them good as well as useful men.

NEW BOOK STORE OPENING IN CITY

Mr. H. O. Litchfield, Who Has Been in Business in Victoria for Nearly Thirty Years, Heads New Firm.

Mr. Henry O. Litchfield, who has been closely connected with the firm of T. N. Hibben & Co. for the past twenty-five years, has resigned his position to begin business for himself as a bookseller and stationer at 1109 Government Street, the store recently vacated by Kirkham & Co., in the Five Sisters Block, opposite the Royal Bank.

The formal opening will take place Wednesday, November 27.

His first position upon leaving school being in connection with the Liverpool branch of the celebrated Old Country firm of W. H. Smith & Sons, news agents, Mr. Litchfield has had a unique experience in the book and stationery trade. After leaving W. H. Smith & Sons he was apprenticed to a firm of commercial stationers in the big Lancashire city. In May, 1891, he came to Victoria, and shortly afterwards entered the service of Mr. Robert Jamieson, who was in business here at that time. Here he became associated with Mr. Charles Braunt, a native of Birmingham, England, and a most popular local bookman. A few years later he transferred to the firm of T. N. Hibben & Co., becoming the assistant of Mr. C. W. Kammerer, one of the original partners of the firm, and on whose death Mr. Litchfield succeeded to charge of the office. This position entailed looking after the financial details and routine of the business, carefully building upon the work of his predecessor. A service of twenty-five years, concluded with less than three months' vacation during the whole period, speaks well for the tenacity and loyalty of the man who is now entering business for himself.

New Epoch Opening

With the coming of peace and the constructive period ahead, Mr. Litchfield believes that a new epoch is opening, and that there will be scope in the city for a bookseller and stationer who is thoroughly acquainted with the best ideals of the British book trade as well as with the Western Canadian requirements. It is not his desire to cut into the trade of any local concern, but slowly, through service, to make his store the rendezvous of booklovers and readers of good literature. His long experience should place him in a position to give much assistance to students in selecting books along special lines.

The ordering of special books for customers will receive special attention, as complete arrangements have been entered into with British, American and Canadian publishing houses for the prompt filling of all orders. Through long residence here he has a host of friends, and these and his deep interest in education and the social questions of the day should contribute to the success of his new venture.

In May last, Mr. Litchfield's eldest son, Reginald, was killed in a crash at Camp Beamsville, Ontario, while serving with the Royal Air Force, and his second son, Arthur, will be associated with him in the business. Although the head of the new firm considers that it will take perhaps a year to get his stock and business into shape, he is confident that he will ultimately win the confidence and patronage of his fellow-citizens, and with "Service" as his motto, it is reasonable to bespeak for him a prosperous future.

U. S. A. TURNING TO STERNER STUFF

Stanford and Columbia Universities Have Resumed Football, Ousting "Mollycoddle" Athletics.

Under the caption "Exit the Mollycoddle," The Portland Oregonian of Sunday had a word to say in favor of the effect of the war on athletics in the U.S. universities.

Several million young men, brimming with energy, trained in the enjoyment of outdoor life, eager to be up and doing, will before long return to America again to share in the activities and recreations of the various communities, contends the writer.

So full of that which the college boy aptly terms "pep" will these returned soldiers be that it will be a real problem to see that the superabundant energies are directed aright after the uniform has been doffed and the civilian garb donned.

These young men, constituting the backbone of the American people, are not going to be satisfied with ping pong, croquet, old maid and other sports of equally thrilling character. Real red-blooded recreation will be the demand, and football, boxing and baseball will certainly be not less popular than prior to the war.

Evidence that America is already turning to sterner stuff in its recreation is noted at two of our great universities, which, though separated by a continent, have much in common. Mollycoddle sport has finally had to take a back seat at Stanford University, after a decade of trial, and American football has been added to the athletic curriculum. Since the outbreak of the war in Europe football has been resumed at Columbia University, New York City.

It is significant that at these two universities, practically the only large educational institutions in the country which had forbidden play of American football, leaders in the faculties were among the first to proclaim themselves pacifists, were bitter foes of the doctrine of preparedness and preached against the war so firmly that their motives were at least under suspicion. Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, may be a good American. It is a fact, however, that he continually laid himself open to criticism, although his more recent utterances have been patriotic enough to suit the most critical. Dr. Jordan was not only one of the first to preach against preparedness and war, but he was first to take a stand against the red-blooded game of American football. Not unlike Dr. Jordan's was the attitude of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, both as regards preparedness and football. There may be other less prominent cases which could be cited where pacifism and mollycoddle athletics went hand in hand, but these two instances will suffice.

Football may be only a symbol, but it was the halfbacks who cared naught for a few bumps and bruises who dashed across No Man's Land and led the American forces in the charges which swept the Hun out of France. Now that they are returning, these young men who have been plunging through space in bombing machines, trudging across shell-pitted fields in the face of a hail of machine gun fire and lulled to sleep night after night by the roar of artillery, are going to scoff if told football and boxing are dangerous. Furthermore, these same young men will be those who in a few years will make up the college faculties. Theirs will be the say whether or not young America shall be prepared for future eventualities in a hothouse atmosphere, shielded from every possible harm, with their sports carefully chosen for them so that there shall be no chance for a hard knock.

Yes, virile athletics, it seems, is due for a big post-bellum revival. That the thing may be overdone, too, is possible. Boxing has had a great impetus from the war. Thousands of young men who had never learned to box were schooled in the niceties of the two-fisted sport and the inter-company, inter-regimental and inter-departmental championship contests became big things in the recreation of these young men in the training camps and overseas. When the soldiers come back and the men who have learned to enjoy a boxing contest demand more of this sport, then will rise danger of a revival of prize-fighting, with all the evils which unscrupulous promoters have linked with pugilism.

Legislatures will almost certainly be called upon to hearken to the demand for boxing when all these converts to the sport return from overseas, bringing with them their ballots and prestige. That certain states will amend their present laws against ring encounters seems likely, but it behooves them to keep a watchful eye on all boxing legislation and to discriminate carefully between boxing and prize-fighting.

The Army and Navy have, in their own direct way, already solved the problem. A champion of the Army or of a regiment or of a company was not a professional or an amateur. He was simply the best boxer in his unit. He stood ready at all times to meet any who challenged his right to the title. We heard nothing about squabbling as to "terms"; nothing about the promoter's share; nothing about the expensive training quarters or boxing partners. The game was stripped of all this in the military camps and boxing justly took its place as a clean, virile sport.

If legislatures will only study boxing as it was conducted in the Army and Navy before tinkering with the present laws on the subject, great good may result and much evil be spared. But at any event he who objects to the "spectacle of two strong men battling with their fists for supremacy" and to the plunging of a trained team of young men across a lime-marked gridiron, is doomed for some time to come to talk to deaf ears.

Sunlight dispels the shadow that once hung over wash day

IN fact many women do not say "wash day" any more. They say "Sunlight Day". It's a genuine pleasure to use Sunlight Soap because it means an economical wash, it means a quick wash. Why? Because, Sunlight is absolutely pure—you need only half the quantity as compared with ordinary soaps, nor will Sunlight harm any delicate fabrics, or hurt your hands. And it really takes the labour out of the washing in surprisingly little time as you will see by following the directions.

Theatres Offer New Attractiveness

"ROYAL" PLANS SEASON OF ATTRACTIVE PLAYS

Some Notable Stage Successes Secured for Popular Playhouse — Big Film Productions to Be Presented.

MR. CLIFF DENHAM,
Manager of the Royal Victoria Theatre.

A glance at the list of bookings which Manager Cliff Denham has arranged for presentation at the Royal Victoria Theatre during the Winter season produces a thrill of anticipation of the pleasures in store for lovers of legitimate stage productions, for, although the recent closed period consequent upon the enforcement of the "flu" ban has meant the cancellation of a number of contracts for road show attractions, several other popular productions have been secured in their stead, and the prospect for the present season is very bright indeed.

On account of the war the Royal Victoria has been obliged during the last couple of years to abandon almost entirely the regular booking of road show attractions. This situation was due to difficulty producers met with in conveying their companies and the necessary equipment from place to place, the United States Government having commandeered almost all transportation facilities for war work, but there is no doubt, now that the war is over, that the theatre will revert to its former policy of presenting the latest stage successes, filling in the vacant dates with larger film productions.

Noted Successes Coming

Some of the big dramatic treats that are coming to the Royal within the next few weeks are: "Bird of Paradise," Oliver Morosco comedy; "Business Before Pleasure"; Ellison Opera Company; "Her Regiment," operetta; "Twin Beds," Selwyn and Company, comedy; Richard Carle in musical comedy, 'Furs and Frills'; the Cohen-Harris production, "The Tailor-Made Man"; George Arliss in Oliver Morosco's musical comedy 'So Long, Letty"; and Maude Adams and Julian Eltinge in their latest productions.

As a filling for this delectable sandwich some of the most powerful of recent motion picture productions will be offered to patrons of this theatre, among these being David Wark Griffith's masterpiece of the great world war, "Hearts of the World," which is to be shown during the week commencing December 9; and at a later date "The Great Love," a picture founded on the experiences of Canadians overseas. In this production Queen Alexandra and many members of the British nobility and other notable persons appear in this picture, which has created a furore among those who have been privileged to see it before its release to the exhibitors. Fred Stone, late of the famous Montgomery and Stone comedy team, will soon be seen in an entertaining picture, "Under the Top," as will also Dorothy Dalton and Bryant Washburn. Other popular stars in the film firmament who will be seen here this season in Paramount and Artcraft pictures, which are handled almost exclusively by the Royal, are Marguerite Clarke, Mary Pickford, George Cohan, Douglas Fairbanks, Lila Lee, Billie Burke, Clara Kimball Young and Julian Eltinge.

Theatre's Attractive Features

The Royal Victoria is a theatre of which Victorians are justly proud. From an architectural viewpoint its structural plan is splendid, while its artistic interior design and the harmonious furnishings are equal to those in any other city on the Coast. Its facilities for the proper presentation of legitimate dramatic offerings have won many encomiums from distinguished actors and theatrical folk who have appeared here.

It has the best equipment obtainable and the ventilation system is unexcelled. During the "flu" vacation Manager Denham took advantage of the opportunity to effect a change in the location of the operating room, which was removed from the balcony to the main floor, resulting in a great improvement in the projection, which is now in a direct line instead of following the steep slant from its former position. A new curtain was installed and the auditorium was thoroughly vacuum cleaned.

GRIFFITH MASTERPIECE IS COMING TO "ROYAL"

"Hearts of the World," the supreme triumph of David Wark Griffith, the greatest genius of the camera the world has ever known; the man who had already made his name famous throughout the civilized world for his colossal achievements in "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance."

"Hearts of the World" is a beautiful story with the Great War as a background. Mr. Griffith devoted eighteen months of herculean labors behind the British lines, and with the wonderful aid of a letter given him by David Lloyd George he was enabled to utilise the services of the entire British Army in France, in the making of this gigantic screen drama.

Mr. Griffith also had the official aid and assistance of the French War Office in taking such scenes as those in which both French and British soldiers and guns participated.

While the Great War is the background, it is primarily a love story, with the sweetest romance of a young boy and girl possible to imagine, caught on the eve of their wedding day in the maddened maelstrom of war. One sees the romance which began in childhood; which grew into maturity as the boy and girl attained manhood and womanhood; which reaches its climax just as the horrid monster War reared its grim and ugly head over the eastern horizon in those early days of August, 1914, when the Kaiser, dreaming of world-conquest, first launched his thunderbolts.

Anticipating a victorious peace, we have just received a suitable stock of exclusive Christmas Cards. Let us show you samples. Sweeney-McConnell, Limited, 1012 Langley Street.

NEW FEATURES ENHANCE VARIETY ATTRACTIONS

Popular Picture House Presents Attractive Appearance —Some Big Productions Promised This Season.

MR. G. MURDOCH
Manager of Variety Theatre.

Patrons of the Variety who see the presentation of this week's feature, "The Doctor and the Woman," will note with pleasure the improvements which Manager George Murdoch has effected during the recent closed period. Always commodious and comfortable with the best equipment and features obtainable, this show house emerges from the enforced retirement of the past few weeks with a particularly attractive appearance.

The Cormorant Street entrance has been closed and altered to include a large check room, where parcels, coats and umbrellas may be left by patrons, who will be free to enjoy the pictures in peace and comfort without the bother of looking after numerous belongings, a feature that will no doubt be greatly appreciated, especially during the wet weather season. By the courtesy of the management this will be a gratuitous service. The box office has also been removed to a central and a more convenient position.

Manager Murdoch's policy in the past has been to remain clear of binding contracts in order that he may pick his pictures from the wide variety offered by an open market and a glance at the list of screen stars who are featured on the Variety screen reveals such names as Vivian Martin, Pauline Frederick, Geraldine Farrar, Marguerite Clarke, Olga Petrova, Lina Cavalieri, Mary Miles Minter, Enid Bennett, Anita Stewart, Charles Ray, Douglas Fairbanks, Jack Pickford and "Big Bill" Hart.

Some of the big pictures that will be shown at the Variety within the next few weeks include Lois Weber's tremendously successful productions, "The Price of a Good Time," and "Scandal Mongers," both of which feature Mildred Harris in the leading role; "Bill" Hart in "Riddle Gawne," Mary McLaren in "Bread" and "The Confession of a Model," and Dorothy Phillips in "A Soul for Sale," while it is altogether probable that "For Husbands Only," the Lois Weber production that was showing at the time of the enforcement of the "flu" ban, will be shown again.

It has always been Mr. Murdoch's aim to feature the musical accompaniments almost as much as the pictures and he has now one of the finest aggregations of musicians in the city. They number Benedict Bantly, the conductor; Jesse A. Longfield, organ; A. Rumsby, late bandmaster 88th Battalion; H. Pigott, drum, and Miss I. H. Gordon, piano.

BAZAAR AND DANCE

Attractiveness characterises entertainments which are given by the Victoria Club, as a rule, and the November sale of work to be held on Wednesday afternoon next it is intended shall be no exception. A gift-table for soldiers overseas is to be one of the special features, but there will also be a fancy-work and novelty stall.

In the early evening, 6 to 7 o'clock, high tea will be served, and during the afternoon the Red Cross committee will serve tea. Commencing at 8 o'clock there will be a dance and concert, continuing until 11, and it is hoped the event will be well patronised.

DOMINION THEATRE'S PROGRESSIVE POLICY

Reputation for Showing High-Class Pictures Has Been Well Sustained During Year —Big Productions Booked.

MR. J. M. ROBERTSON
Manager of Dominion Theatre.

Since its opening nearly five years ago, the Dominion Theatre, which is owned and operated by the Victoria Dominion Theatre Company in conjunction with the United Theatres Company, with headquarters in Vancouver, has under the management of Mr. J. M. Robertson followed a progressive policy that has proved pleasing to its patrons, and the reputation it has sustained for exhibiting the best in pictures during that period will be further enhanced during the present season, for Mr. Robertson has secured for production at his theatre during the next few months some of the finest of the new First National Fox and Metro releases.

During the past year some of the most popular Fox, Metro, Goldwyn, First National and Artcraft stars have been featured on the screen of the Dominion in super de luxe productions. They included Mae Marsh, Olga Petrova, Alla Nazimova, Theda Bara, Annette Kellerman, Mabel Normand, June Caprice, Mabel Taliaferro, Jewel Carmen, William Farnum, George Walsh and Thomas Meighan.

During the Winter season the Dominion will present to its patrons an almost exclusive line of First National productions, some of those booked for early showing indicating that the theatre's past record for high-class pictures will be excelled. It will be Mr. Robertson's aim in the future, as it has been in the past, to introduce the newest and most popular stars at this theatre.

Following this week's presentation of "The Romance of Tarzan," the fascinating sequel to "Tarzan of the Apes," the second new National comedy attraction, "Shoulder Arms," Charlie Chaplin's million dollar production, and "Italy's Flaming Front," another National picture, will be shown, also Olga Petrova, in "The Panther Woman," Theda Bara, in "Cleopatra," and "Salome," and William Farnum, in "Les Miserables," all Fox productions.

The big pipe organ at the Dominion is one of its attractions. This is played by Mr. Handley Wells, who came here a few months ago from Spokane, Wash., to accept his present position. His chief desire is to have the musical score synchronise with the theme and character of the pictures displayed.

"BOUND IN MOROCCO" IS ATTRACTION AT ROYAL

Scenes of Douglas Fairbanks New Artcraft Picture Laid in Sahara Desert—Many Exciting Incidents.

In addition to the characteristic Fairbanksen methods, three are numerous situations that make "Bound in Morocco," the Artcraft picture starring Douglas Fairbanks, which will be the attraction at the Royal Victoria all this week, commencing tomorrow —unusually interesting. The scenes are laid in Algiers and it is a snappy twentieth century photoplay filled with comedy which travels at high speed throughout. The picturesque country of Algiers, which has been the scene of numerous great paintings, novels, and photoplays, is the home of Douglas Fairbanks' latest picture produced under Artcraft auspices. The action has to do with Arabians, beauties of the harem, fights with bandits, etc., in which Mr. Fairbanks portrays a character quite different from any he has hitherto essayed.

In addition to the features named, great travelling caravans, with their tawdry camels, goats and other animals are shown. There are battles and chases on the Arabian desert, in which Mr. Fairbanks does his customary dare-devil stunts, one of these being a dive Mr. Fairbanks makes from the top of a high sand-dune upon the neck of an Arabian rider who is passing by on a swiftly speeding horse beneath. This is followed by an exciting hand to hand fight, in which, of course, Mr. Fairbanks emerges as the victor.

"BOB" JAMIESON NOW PANTAGES MANAGER

Victoria's Pioneer in Advanced Vaudeville Field Given Charge of Local House—Just Returned from Overseas

MANAGER ROBERT J. JAMIESON

Newly appointed to take charge of Pantages Theatre, in the uniform of a member of the 88th Battalion, with which he left here for two years' service overseas.

Coincidentally with the reopening of the Pantages Theatre last Wednesday was the announcement that Mr. R. J. Jamieson, a local man, had been appointed by Alexander Pantages to succeed the late Manager Frank Steinfield, whose death occurred only a few days before the institution of the ban on assemblies in Victoria. Mr. Jamieson is one of the most widely knows of the earlier theatrical managers on the Pacific Coast. He saw the development of the stage here almost from its infancy until about eight years ago, when he retired to his farm on Saanich Peninsula. From there he has been recalled to enter the managerial field again at the head of the city's popular vaudeville house. Many hundreds of theatre patrons will welcome Mr. Jamieson to his new position; especially those of the older generation, who will recall his great popularity in the younger days of his theatrical career.

After a conference with the headquarters of the Pantages vaudeville circuit at Seattle, Mr. Jamieson statad that he would follow the policy in the management of the local house that has, since the opening of the theatre, made it one of the cosiest and most popular playhouses in the Northwest. It is his ambition that the theatre should maintain a particularly "clean" attraction as an amusement place, so that at all times it shall appeal as a family rendezvous, where there will be no hesitancy to bring the younger members for pleasant entertainment. He is planning special features that will contribute to such a standing.

Has Definite Policy

Henceforth a full week of vaudeville will be offered and the Pantages Theatre will be known solely as the Victoria home of high class variety offerings. During the slackening period of the Spanish influenza epidemic special attention is to be given by Mr. Jamieson to keeping of a wholesome and antiseptic atmosphere in the auditorium during performances and at all other times. The special ventilating system with which the house is equipped will make such a course thoroughly possible. Fresh air is drawn from the outside to be clarified by being passed through water, after which it is treated antiseptically before being circulated throughout the auditorium by means of powerful fans. This will tend to allay a certain amount of the anxiety that may still be felt by some in regard to attending assemblies at this time.

"Bob" Jamieson first broke into the theatrical business in the Spring of 1893, when, while proprietor of Jamieson's Book & Stationery Store, he bought John Cort's lease of the Old Victoria Theatre. In 1895 he also acquired a lease of the Vancouver Opera House and arranged to book attractions for New Westminster and Nanaimo, and for nearly ten years thereafter controlled the business in British Columbia. In 1902 his lease of the Vancouver Opera House expired and was not renewed, and when in the following year the owner of the Victoria Theatre, which was not a paying proposition, raised the rent, Mr. Jamieson gave it up.

Pioneer in Advanced Vaudeville

In 1904 present day vaudeville was in its infancy and was represented in Victoria by two small houses, the Edison on lower and the Crystal on upper Yates Street, both playing only two or three small acts and a couple of reels of pictures for an admission of ten cents. Mr. Jamieson opened up the Grand on Johnson Street with advanced vaudeville, as it is presented today, his opening show consisting of six acts, and at an admission of twenty-five cents, and, in spite of much expert opinion to the contrary, to immediate and continued success. This success attracted the S. & C. vaudeville circuit, which had just been incorporated in Seattle and was being rapidly extended, and they secured the old Savoy Theatre, where the Columbia is now. They remodelled these premises and acquired Mr. Jamieson's interests, making him manager of the new house when opened under the name of the New Grand. Four years later he joined with Mr. R. J. Perry in securing the lease of the Crystal Picture Theatre on Broad Street, but shortly afterwards sold his interest to Mr. Perry and retired to live in Saanich.

Volunteered for National Service

From the foregoing it will be seen that Mr. Jamieson is no longer a young man in years, but the fact that for ten years past he had rigidly adhered to a system of daily exercise, and the healthfulness of over three years of open air life and sea bathing on Saanich Arm, made it an easy matter for him to enlist in 1915 with the 88th Battalion, with which he left for overseas in May, 1916. He served two years in England, returning with a big convoy which left Liverpool on March 6, of this year, and has only recently received his discharge.

It is a fortunate coincidence that made his services available at this time when Mr. Pantages was looking for someone who possessed the necessary experience and could also satisfy his own wish and that of the public on both sides of the line, that positions should, whenever possible, be given to returned soldiers.

COLUMBIA AND ROMANO READY FOR WINTER

Manager E. Clark Has Made Interesting Bookings for Current Season—Two Theatres Enjoy Regular Patronage.

MR. E. CLARK,
Manager of Columbia and Romano Theatres

Manager Clark, of the Columbia Theatre, was not idle during the "flu" holiday, as will be noted by patrons who attend his theatre this week. The entire house has been renovated, a new floor has been put in both downstairs and in the balcony and comfortable boxes have been installed, while other minor changes have been effected that add considerably to the attractiveness of the theatre.

Mr. Clark shows almost exclusively Vitagraph, Metro and Jewel productions at the Columbia, and he has booked for early showing such splendid screen successes as "Social Hypocrites," featuring May Allison; "Less Than Kin," starring Wallace Reid, and some Chaplin comedies. Among the film favorites who will be seen during the Winter months are Olga Petrova, Earle Williams, Antonio Moreno, Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, Billie West, and William Duncan. Every week he will present, in conjunction with the special feature attractions, an episode of the thrilling Vitagraph serial, "Vengeance and the Woman," in which daring Carol Holloway and William Duncan are co-starred.

Romano Attractions

Mr. Clark is also joint manager with Mr. E. R. Quagliotti, of the Romano Theatre, which is one of the older motion picture houses of the city. It is a cosy little theatre and enjoys a regular patronage of film fans, to whom its features are most attractive.

A popular feature of the Romano programme of pictures has been the showing of some of the most interesting serials in the market, and it is the intention of the management to show an episode of two serials each week, at the beginning and at the end. The first of these will be the Pathe feature, "Hands Up," presenting Ruth Roland, opening on Monday, December 2, while on Thursday, December 5, the first episode of "The Brass Bullet," a sensational Universal attraction, featuring bewitching Juanita Hansen and dashing Jack Mulhall. Among the popular screen stars to be presented on the Romano screen this Winter are Mary Miles Minter, Edith Roberts, Fannie Ward, Eddie Polo, Monroe Salisbury, Jack Mulhall, Franklyn Farnum, and Baby Marie Osborne.

MATERIAL NEEDED IN RECONSTRUCTION

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Reconstruction work will tax the productive capacity of the country for lumber and other materials for years, Edwin B. Parker, commissioner of priorities for the War Industries Board, told members of the National Lumber Association, in convention today. He predicted it would take 20 years to rebuild France.

The speaker said he understood construction permits for new work in New York soon would total $200,000,000. He said the export trade was to be a big thing in the lumber business of the future, and a long period of prosperity was ahead for the farmers and the whole country.

Budapest Welcomes French

GENEVA, Nov. 23.—When French troops entered Budapest, the capital of Hungary, on Wednesday, they were showered with flowers by cheering crowds that filled the streets, according to dispatches from Innsbruck. The residents sang the Marseillaise as the French marched in. The French troops are expected to remain in Budapest until peace is signed.

ROYAL VICTORIA

HAS PRESENTED MANY SUCCESSFUL PLAYS

Mr. R. N. Hincks Is Victoria's Popular Playwright-Producer—Plans an Elaborate Programme for Current Season.

MR. R. N. HINCKS,
Manager of Red Cross Stock Company Productions.

With he presentation of "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," the delightful three-act comedy to be staged at the Princess Theatre this week by the Red Cross Stock Company, Mr. R. N. Hincks, Victoria's popular playwright-producer, adds another link to a chain of successful productions that a professional manager might covet, so successful have they proved, both from the standpoint of dramatic achievement and financial returns.

Since the commencement of the war Mr. Hincks has produced a number of plays, each one of which has further enhanced his popularity among local theatre-goers and especially among friends and supporters of the Red Cross cause, which has benefited from the proceeds of the productions to the extent of over $10,000. Following the presentation of "Marching Orders," which was produced early in the war, co-starring Phyllis Davis (Mrs. W. Rochfort) and Lieut. "Bob" Horton, who prior to his departure for overseas was a well-known local architect—new plays have been produced at regular intervals.

Other Popular Productions

The next production, "Puss in Boots," a delightful Christmas pantomime, was presented for a week's engagement, Dec., 1916, at the Royal Victoria to capacity houses. Princess Eugene Bauharnois-Kotchoubey (nee Miss Peggy Pearce, of this city), had the leading role of Prince Charming, while Mrs. W. Rochfort was "Puss," and Miss Mona Misener and Mr. H. J. Davis appeared as the princess and the Marquis of Carrabas, respectively.

This production was followed in the first week of July, 1917, by "The Caliph of Bagdad," in which Peggy Pearce again played the leading role—that of first the slave girl and later the Caliph's bride. She was supported by such popular local artists as Mr. Clifford Smith in the title role of the Caliph; Mrs. D. B. McConnan, Mr. James Hunter and Mr. H. J. Davis. The third of the series, "The Mandarin," in which Miss Eva Hart was starred, supported by Cpl. Maris Hale, was produced in January of the present year. This proved every bit as successful as its predecessors and the company was obliged to give repeat performances to satisfy public demand.

Early in the present year Mr. Hincks organized a company of accomplished artists to present popular plays under the auspices of the Red Cross Stock Company, the success of which has made their offerings a regular attraction to their patrons. Since organization the company has presented the following productions with outstanding success: "The New Boy," in April; "The King of Cannibal Isles," in June; "Ye Olden Days of Chivalrie," in June; "Jane," in August, and "His Excellency the Governor," in September. Miss Eva Hart, whose delightful characterisation of the leading part in "The Mandarin" established her in the hearts of her admirers, has sustained the popularity she thus gained throughout the later productions, in which she has played the leading roles with most gratifying results.

Will "Carry On"

The Red Cross Stock Company has leased the Princess Theatre for a year and will continue to produce plays so long as there remains a wounded soldier who needs the ministrations of the Red Cross. During the recent closed period the theatre has undergone several alterations which will greatly improve the presentation of their offerings. The stage has been enlarged and a new lighting arrangement has been installed, while a number of other minor improvements have been effected, and now all is in readiness to proceed with the fulfilment of an elaborate and entertaining programme scheduled for the current season. The "flu" vacation postponed the presentation of this week's production, also the rehearsals of its successor, a delightful musical pantomime, "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," which is to be presented as soon after Christmas as possible.

IRENE CASTLE COMING IN "GIRL FROM BOHEMIA"

Beautiful and popular, Irene Castle is coming back in what may be her farewell screen appearance in "The Girl From Bohemia," a Pathe play. It was only a week after she had finished making this play that she received the news of the tragic death of her husband, Captain Vernon Castle, who was killed on the army aviation field in Texas.

Since then his young widow has retired from her professional activities and confined her labors to war work. She is planning to go to France for the purpose of entertaining the American soldiers in the Y.M.C.A. entertainment huts at the front.

When the last Thrift Stamp campaign was started in New York Mrs. Castle presided over a booth in Fifth Avenue and from early morning until long after the arc lights were twinkling she was to be found urging passers-by to help America win the war.

In "The Girl From Bohemia" Mrs. Castle is afforded a splendid opportunity to practice her winsome art, and incidentally, displays some marvelous gowns.

"The Girl From Bohemia' is coming to the Romano for three days, starting tomorrow.

"ARMISTICE BALL" WILL BE ATTRACTIVE EVENT

Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Officers From Camp Lewis Invited—Local Commanding Officers Patrons

Of special interest to American citizens in Victoria, whose National Thanksgiving Day is next Thursday, November 28, is the "Armistice" Masquerade to be held on that evening at the Empress Hotel. Should present plans materialize, an international finesse touch will be given the premier social event of the season by the presence of Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt, and possibly a large contingent of American officers from Camp Lewis, near Tacoma. General Vanderbilt, a member of one of the wealthiest families in America, is officer commanding at Camp Lewis. An invitation has been extended him and it is hoped he will be able to attend.

Major-General Leckie, C. M. G., G. O. C., M. D. No. 11, and Capt. Martin, R. N., Commandant at Esquimalt Navy Yard, together with Brigadier-General H. C. Bickford, and officers of the Siberian force and of H. M. S. Lancaster, have been invited and the affair, it is predicted, will surpass anything of its kind held since the Victory Loan ball.

Manager Caine, of the Empress, is exerting every effort to make a success and has arranged for dancing in the ballroom, palm room and foyer. Professor Turner's augmented orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, which insures the guests a most pleasant musical programme.

The committee in charge has decided that dress shall be optional. The grand march will commence at 11 o'clock and a prominent soldier, probably will be asked to officiate as master of ceremonies.

PLACES AND PEOPLE I REMEMBER

By Edgar Fawcett

The Belasco's—Many old timers will remember the Belasco's, that is David, the eldest son, of theatrical fame. Over 50 years ago the family came here from Australia, being, I think, English Jews. The father kept a fruit and cigar store on Johnson Street, and David went to school at St. Louis College at the top of Yates Street. David took minor parts in Theatre Royal on Government Street, and subsequently left for San Francisco, where he continued to practise his chosen profession, and today is quite celebrated, and is a wealthy man also, it is said. I wrote him several years ago, when he commenced the first chapter of his "Reminiscences of Early Theatrical Life." I read these first chapters, and would like to know more of David, and his book, and have an idea he was here for a short visit some few years ago.

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S BRIDE" AT VARIETY

Big Jewel Production, "The Doctor and the Woman," Presents Mildred Harris in Role of Innocent Girlhood.

Why should a famous physician suddenly sacrifice friends, fame and fortune—disappear to hide his head in shame from his fellow practitioners? What reasons are powerful enough to cause him to thus give up the benefits that came as the result of a lifetime's endeavor?

"The Doctor and the Woman," the Jewel adaptation of Mary Roberts Rinehart's powerful novel "K," tells the story of this physician's predicament. Photoplay patrons who attend the Variety Theatre will have the opportunity of seeing it when the management of that theatre presents it tomorrow, the opening day of a week's engagement.

Just as one never forgets the scent of delicious attar of roses, so you'll never forget the lovely picture of innocent girlhood made by Mildred Harris, who plays the role of Sidney in "The Doctor and the Woman." The shocking revelations of love dishonored which come to little Sidney are made doubly affecting by the amazing talent of this youthful star, whom your women patrons will love in the same unusual measure as the man.

Supporting Mildred Harris in this play there is one of the most admirably chosen, perfectly balanced casts that an audience will see for many months. Zella Caull's "Carlotta" is particularly strong and fine—while True Boardman as "K," the great surgeon whom Carlotta ruined for reasons best known to herself, will give your people a figure with whose self-sacrifice every man and woman will sympathize.

An announcement that attaches particular interest to the appearance of Mildred Harris on the Variety screen this week was that recently made of her marriage to Charles Spencer Chaplin.—Yes, no other than "Charlie," the famous comedian of filmdom—which was celebrated very quietly in Los Angeles late in October.

Mildred Harris, whose lovable personality and ability to portray emotional roles, has endeared her to motion picture fans, is featured in the tantalizing Lois Weber photodramatic production, "The Doctor and the Woman," which will be the feature attraction at the Variety all this week, commencing tomorrow.

BACCARAT SCENE IN COLUMBIA FEATURE

"Social Hypocrites," Big Metro Photodrama, Presents May Allison in Leading Role—Episode of Vitagraph Serial.

Baccarat, the great French gambling game, is shown for the first time in an American motion picture in "Social Hypocrites," a Metro All-Star series picture, starring delightful May Allison, which will be shown at the Columbia tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. This picture is a screen version of Alicia Ramsay's stage play, "Bridge."

As no baccarat table could be secured in America, the Metro technical staff built an exact duplicate of the kind used in the big Casinos at Monte Carlo and other gambling palaces. The table was twelve feet six inches long and forty-four inches wide and marked off in accordance with the rules of the game. All the accoutrements of the table were provided.

In "Social Hypocrites" the game takes place in an intimate gambling club in Paris, where devotees offer nightly homage to the god of chance. It is here that Colonel Francis Fielding, the father of Lenore (played by May Allison) loses heavily at the baccarat table. During the course of the spirited play about a hundred Parisian man types placed bets in this game. Ralph Virtelli, an old European master at baccarat, coached the players in the game. Director Albert Capellani succeeded in getting his players into the reckless spirit of the game, and they played with enthusiasm. Another episode of the Vitagraph serial, "Vengeance and the Woman," will be featured on this programme.

Death of Manitoba Pioneer

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.—Mr. E. H. G. G. Hay died here today of heart disease. He was 77 years old and was one of Manitoba's pioneer citizens, a member of its first Legislature in 1870. Four years later he was made Minister of Public Works and Agriculture for Manitoba. He took an active part in pioneer legislation in Manitoba. His widow, a son and a daughter survive. The funeral will be Masonic.

JUNGLE LIFE FEATURED IN DOMINION PICTURE

Episodes of Breathless Realism Add Dramatic Touch to "Romance of Tarzan"—Week's Engagement.

Opening in the African jungles, where Tarzan, the son of titled English parents who has been rescued as a baby from the awful fate that overtook his parents, and raised to young manhood by an ape foster-mother has been visited by a party of explorers from the civilised world, the story of "The Romance of Tarzan," this week's feature attraction at the Dominion, moves rapidly from climax to climax.

After saving his new-found friends, including a beautiful American girl, in whom he recognizes his long-sought mate, from death at the hands of wild beasts and equally savage cannibals, Tarzan is the victim of a conspiracy engineered by a member of the party who is vitally interested in preventing the jungle king's return to civilization, there to assume the high station in life to which he is rightfully entitled.

How Tarzan by native wit and main strength thwarts this conspiracy and wins back not only his paternal title and estate, but the heart of the beautiful American girl as well, provides nearly two hours of the finest kind of entertainment that the screen has yet made visible.

Elmo Lincoln again takes the part of Tarzan, while Enid Markey fills the role of Jane Porter, the American heroine. These two sterling players are adequately supported by Cleo Madison, Thomas Jefferson, Monte Blue and other capable characters.

"The Romance of Tarzan," which presents the concluding chapters of "Tarzan of the Apes" from the book by Edgar Rice Burroughs, pleases the eye with the same scenic magnificence that distinguished the first Tarzan film, and in addition provides an even more dramatic and closely-knit story.

SEVERAL NEW ARTISTS APPEAR IN LATEST PLAY

Cast for "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" Includes Miss Sybil Street, Mrs. Beilby, R. N. Hincks and T. J. Goodlake.

The cast of players in "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," the fifth production of the Red Cross Stock Company, which will be presented at the Princess Theatre for a week's run, commencing on Tuesday night, discloses the names of local artistes whose combined talent and popularity promise a most successful attraction. It includes the following: Miss Eva Hart, Mrs. Appleby, Mrs. F. Beilby, Miss Sybil Street, Mrs. Thornborrow, Mr. R. N. Hincks, Mr. James Hunter, Mr. Oswald Barton, Mr. T. J. Goodlake, Capt. A. Hendy and Mr. A. Fairbairn. The original production of "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," starring Marie Tempest and Gerald du Maurier, took London audiences by storm, and it is certain that its adaptation for presentation in Victoria will be proportionately popular.

Miss Eva Hart as Peggy has possibly never had a part which allows so much scope to display her ability, while Mr. R. N. Hincks is splendidly suited in his own role. Mr. T. J. Goodlake, the genial secretary of the Rotary Club, will enact the role of Lord Anthony Crackenthorpe, whose hobby is the study of spiders, and will prove a big draw in himself, and the description which the author gave as necessary for the particular part to be properly filled according to his own conception fits Mr. Goodlake like a glove.

The other artistes who complete the cast have demonstrated in a like manner their ability to fill their respective roles so splendidly as to make safe the prediction that "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" will equal, if not excel, in point of excellence and popularity any of the previous productions which Mr. R. N. Hincks has so successfully staged. A full house is expected and anticipated at the opening performance; and as the players have been ready for weeks, waiting for the ban to be lifted, there need be no fear that the opening performance will run as smoothly as on any following night.

Mrs. Gertrude Huntley Green's magnificent orchestra, conducted by Mr. Frank Sehl, will render new pieces each evening, and will, as on former occasions, add greatly to the enjoyment of the evening's entertainment. The booking office is now open and seats can be reserved for all parts of the house.

PANTAGES TO OFFER ANOTHER BRIGHT BILL

Tom Edwards and Alice Melville Favorably Known to English Stage—Programme has Musical Motif.

Many acts will vie for popularity with Pantages vaudeville audiences this week. The performances will commence with the matinee on Monday and will continue throughout the week, at the usual Pantages times.

One of the hits of the bill with Victoria patrons will be the presentation of Tom Edwards and Miss Alice Melville. For many years this pair coheadlined the bills of the Moss Circuit in England. They offer a double ventriloquist act, in addition to which Miss Melville will sing several songs composed by herself.

Another star attraction in the tabloid musical act is entitled "The Owl." This is another of the Marty Brooks productions, of which such numbers as "The Reel Guys," "The Handicap Girls" and "The Love Race" are fresh in the memory of Pantages audiences.

Three acts appear in support. Two of the turns are trios, who offer songs and sayings and steps. The third is a stellar posing presentation.

Reeves and the Gaynor Girls have a medley of songs, dances and cross-talk as their routine.

Manning, Feeney and Knoll have for several years been associated with song-publishers and Broadway musical productions. The trio make their first appearance in the West via the Pantages circuit.

The Youngers reproduce for Pantages audiences a series of poses of the world's greatest sculptors. This pair of artists were recently the models for groups to be placed at the entrance to one of the United States government buildings in Washington.

The entire bill is of a decidedly musical motif. Four of the five acts include vocal and instrumental music in their routine. Three of them at least will offer dances. It should prove to be one of the most popular bills ever presented, especially with those who know the Edwards-Melville act of old.

THE SNIPER'S DAY

Now and then upon an easy sector of the front there occurs an ideal long-range sniping day, writes Captain H. B. C. Pollard, author of "The Story of Ypres." In order to be perfect, many and various conditions must be fulfilled, and, from the point of view of the artist in sniping, these ideal days come all too seldom.

The weather needs to be clear, not too bright, and, above all, perfectly windless. The condition of the front must be one of extreme quiet, and there must have been a fairly long preceding period of quietness in the sector, so that the enemy have attained a certain degree of confidence in exposing themselves. To bring the boche up to the pitch of carelessness in daylight unauthorised inexpert and amateurish long-range sniping must be sternly repressed, and a good battalion will repress its natural desire to pump lead at distant boches, and to await the day when the scout officer and his pet snipers will make a specially long range shoot.

In the ordinary way very little individual firing is ever done at ranges of more than three hundred yards, but well-trained snipers, equipped with their own special rifles, can make real Bisley shooting at anything from eight hundred to a thousand yards.

The training of the sniper embodies an extremely thorough course in the use of the telescopic sight. This is to all intents and purposes a short telescope fixed to the rifle. Midway between its lenses are set two crossed hairs, and these are so adjusted that the intersection of the hairs corresponds with the point at which the bullet will hit. By means of a screw elevating drum arranged within the body of the telescope itself, the crossed hairs can be lifted, giving the right adjustment for different ranges. In aiming, all that the sniper has to do is to centre his crossed hairs upon the target, hold on and press the trigger.

Work at Close Range

In the ordinary way the snipers' work is done at close ranges from the usual trench line, but for a long-range day they usually select a rather higher vantage ground some way back from their own front line. They move up to the selected point during the night, dig a little rifle pit, and proceed to make themselves comfortable. As these positions are necessarily rather exposed, the snipers don their snipers' suits, which are either ordinary "boiler suits"—such as are used by mechanics but dyed and painted in blotches so as to harmonise with surrounding backgrounds—or "Gamien" suits—grotesque garments of loose greenish canvas, tufted here and there with wisps of grass or dyed fibre. A loose hood fitted with eye holes fits over the head, and even the hands are encased in special gauntlets. So dressed, a sniper lying motionless is almost invisible at fifty yards' distance, and completely so when several hundred yards away.

As the sun rises, any ground mist that may be clinging about the low levels rolls away. From their points the snipers carefully scan the ground behind the enemy's line with powerful field glasses or even the more useful telescopes. At last an exposed group of two or three men is discovered.

The problem before the sniper now is to estimate the range correctly, and here his past training assists him. To supplement it he has his map, and by reference to the group's apparent position with regard to known objects he is able to check his estimate. The correct sight adjustments are then made, and he decides how much to "aim off" to one side in order to make allowance for any prevailing wind. Then, taking a long breath, he steadies the rifle, aims and presses the trigger.

If the shot is successful, there is still a chance of getting another out of the group, for at that distance the men have no idea whence the shot has come, and often—thinking it was a stray bullet—they will bunch round the strickent man without any attempt to take cover.

Later, other shots may offer at laden men crossing an exposed angle in a communication trench. With the telescopic sight, accurate practice at slow moving targets is moderately easy, and on a good day an individual sniper may be able to take a toll of four or six before the failing light brings his labors to an end.

As a rule, a good day's sniping is followed by two or three blank days, for word flies swiftly through the enemy lines, and on the succeeding days they move with caution. Steel hats painted grey-green are hard to see, but once seen they are no protection against a sniper's bullet, though they may turn aside ordinary shrapnel. Against the sniper there is no defence save invisibility, and every day, along the whole length of the line from sea to Alps, the Allied snipers take their toll. It is a small thing, perhaps, in the great slaughter of modern warfare, but the annual tale of successes must amount to a substantial toll of German dead.

AUSTRIAN DESERTERS POPULATE FORESTS

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A million deserters from the Austrian army, organised in large and small bodies, calling themselves "Green Guards," and established in fortified camps in the forests of almost every part of Southeastern Europe, according to William J. Rose, agent of the Slovene Government in Laibach, the new capital of Slovakia, and of the Polish provisional government in Austrian Silesia.

Mr. Rose, who is from Winnipeg, Man., is now in Paris. He is an Oxford University man, and is secretary of the World's Christian Student Federation in Poland. Throughout the war Mr. Rose has been living quietly in a country house near Cieszanow, Austrian Silesia, belonging to the student federation. He has now prepared for Colonel E. M. House a lengthy memorandum on the situation.

Celebrations in India

SIMLA, India, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press dispatch from Reuter's)—The signing of the armistice was celebrated by a public holiday, the firing of salutes, holding of parades and scenes of unprecedented rejoicing throughout India. A special parade was held at Simla, in which huge crowds took part. The viceroy in a splendid address, declared the Empire had kept her pledge not to sheath the sword until liberty had been secured. India had played a great and noble part in the war. The viceroy read a telegram he had sent to the King-Emperor.

AFTER THE WAR

After the War—I hear men ask—what then?
As though this rock-ribbed world, sculptured with fire,
And bastioned deep in the ethereal plan,
Can never be its morning self again
Because of this brief madness, man with man;
As though the laughing elements should tire,
The very reason in this order reel,
As though indeed yon ghostly golden wheel
Of stars should cease from turning; or the moon
Befriend the night no more; or the wild rose
Forget the world; and June be no more June!

How many wars and long-forgotten woes
Unnumbered, nameless, made a like despair
In hearts long stilled; how many suns have set
On burning cities blackening the air:
Yet dawn came dreaming back, her lashes wet
With dew, and daisies in her innocent hair.

Nor shall, for this, the soul's ascension pause,
Nor the sure evolution of the laws
That out of foulness lift the flower to sun,
And out of fury forge the evening star.

Deem not Love's building of the world undone—
Far Love's beginning was, her end is far;
By paths of fire and blood her feet must climb,
Seeking a loveliness she scarcely knows,
Whose meaning is beyond the reach of Time.

—Richard Le Gallienne.

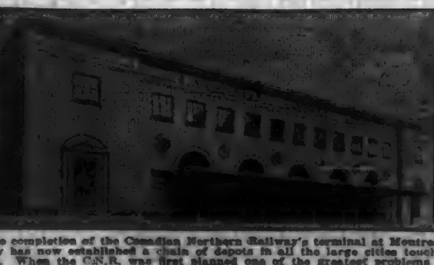
Lifting Ban in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.—A marked decrease in the number and the severity of cases of Spanish influenza reported in Winnipeg this week has resulted in the lifting of the ban on public meetings in the city of Winnipeg from Wednesday midnight next. All public gatherings without exception will be allowed, commencing Thursday morning, as a result of the decision of the Winnipeg Board of Health today. The ban has been in force six weeks tonight.

Reception of President

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The British Admiralty is considering plans for the reception of President Wilson. It porbably will send warships to meet the Agamemnon and escort the presidential party to port.

C.N.R. STATION AT MONTREAL



With the completion of the Canadian Northern Railway's terminal at Montreal, the company has now established a chain of depots in all the large cities touched by the line. When the C.N.R. was first planned one of the greatest problems which arose was that of gaining a central entrance to Montreal and at the same time locating the line so that it would be built from the station to the harbor by the shortest possible route. Mount Royal was tunnelled to the extent of over three miles of double track before the project was completed.

Rheumatism

Rheumatism has become so common nowadays that hundreds of people make no effort to rid themselves of its fatal grip, believing it to be incurable save in exceptional cases.

No greater fallacy exists. Sufferers from rheumatism can be relieved if the cause is remedied and removed.

Let us examine the facts. The direct cause of rheumatism and kindred diseases is poisoning of the blood stream, through failure of the kidneys to filter and remove the impurities that are constantly collecting in the system.

Once the kidneys are out of order, the trouble starts. The poison-ladened blood circulating through the system deposits its impurities in the muscles and joints, setting up infection, and Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, etc., follow.

The first step necessary is to bring the kidneys to perform their natural function once again, and relief will be the immediate result. Gin Pills will do it, and will save weeks of fearful suffering if taken at the first indications of rheumatism.

Gin Pills have been recognized as an assured relief to sufferers from rheumatism, backache, painful urination, brick dust deposits, and gravel. Thousands of testimonials bear witness to the fact that they relieve kidney or bladder troubles instantly. Try them. For sale everywhere at 50c a box. Gin Pills cost little, but are worth a lot. Sample free on request.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD IN SIDNEY

Public Thanksgiving Ceremonies in Commemoration of Soldiers Who Made Supreme Sacrifice

SIDNEY, Nov. 23.—A meeting was held on Wednesday evening last, in Mr. O. Roberts' office, Sidney, to consider the proposal to hold a public thanksgiving service in North Saanich on December 1st. Representatives of the local churches, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and the Sidney Board of Trade were present. On the motion of Rev. T. DesBarres, supported by Mr. J. F. Simister, Rev. F. Letts was elected to the chair and Mr. W. H. Dawes was named as secretary.

Rev. F. Letts explained the purpose of the gathering, that there was a consensus of public opinion that in the district of North Saanich a public thanksgiving service should be held, and that invitations had been addressed to each of the churches and also the various local societies to be present at the meeting. A general discussion followed and it was moved by Rev. A. E. Stevenson that a service should be held in the Berquist Hall on Sunday, December 1st, at 3:30 p. m. It was further decided that the Allies Chapter of the I. O. D. E. and the North Saanich Women's Institute be asked to decorate the hall for the occasion. Miss Eva Hart will be asked to assist in the programme.

It was considered desirable to appoint a committee to arrange the order of the service and musical programme, the following being nominated with power to add to their number: Mrs. DesBarres, Mr. J. F. Simister and Rev. F. Letts. It was decided that a souvenir programme should be printed which would make a memento of the occasion. A collection will be taken for the widows and orphans of our Sailors' Fund of the Navy League of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. West are taking charge of the work at the University District Baptist Church, Seattle, until the new year during the absence of the pastor of that church. Rev. George L. Collins will conduct the services at the Baptist Church, Nanaimo, from December 1.

WOULD LEAD FIGHTERS TO A NEW EL DORADO

Mr. Frank Slavin, M.E., Urges Government to Finance Returned Soldiers in Prospecting Area Near Howe Sound.

One of the greatest needs of British Columbia for the next few years will be the provision of new industries to absorb the labor set free as a result of demobilization of Canadian armies, the return of soldiers, and the cessation of the industries which have thriven on the needs of the fighting men in France. Mr. Frank Slavin, a mining engineer of over twenty years' experience in British Columbia and Yukon gold mining centres, is the father of a tentative scheme, which he claims will provide adequate exploitation for a vast area of this Province which, he avers, has been overlooked by gold miners and prospectors on account of its unpromising external appearance and the difficulties of approach to it until recent years.

Mr. Slavin refers to the great expanse of British Columbia lying to the east of the immense granite coastal range and the Fraser River, a territory which runs for hundreds of miles north and south, and which he summarises as follows:

"I will stake my professional reputation on the results which would be attained by prospectors working in the area running north from Howe Sound to the Skeena River and lying behind the granite coastal range. I have been there. I have seen placer color washed by my own hands in that territory. The formation is one of quartz, slate and schist, and is identical with that of the Dawson gold-bearing areas. If I were grubstaking a party I would not send them to the Yukon or Alaska, since I saw that country three years ago. I would have them work on the headwaters of the creeks running into the Gardner Canal and behind Rivers Inlet."

Prospecting Scheme

Mr. Slavin has prepared a scheme for prospecting this country at small expense, and to the great benefit of the returned soldiers who take part in the work, and claims that his proposals, if adopted by the Government, will greatly add to the resources of the Province and in the course of a few years give employment, directly and indirectly, to thousands of men. This scheme is best outlined in Mr. Slavin's own words. He says:

"Returned soldiers will be discharged with a small sum in their pockets. Some of them would like to go prospecting and mining, in fact, many of them followed that occupation before enlisting. It is a fact that the small amount of money which a discharged soldier will have will not go very far in outfitting him, even though several club together. Besides, some of the men desiring to go out into the wilds for months at a time will have families who must be supported, and the money they have on discharge will be required for their maintenance. So will good, hearty men be discouraged from the venture and none others will do for this work, which is a rough but splendid life.

Would Enlist Men

"Now the Government comes into the question. I suggest that all returned soldiers desiring to go prospecting be paid the army pay and subsistence allowances, be allowed to make up small parties of, say, four or five men apiece, and go forth to this hitherto locked and practically unknown treasure chamber in the early Spring months of the year and see what they can find.

"My aid in the scheme comes in at this point. I know that country. As a matter of fact, in June, 1915, on a creek running into the headwaters of Gardner Canal, I panned 'color' with nothing to work with but an old straw hat. I was not looking for gold. I was there on behalf of the British Government to try and locate a reported deposit of graphite and molybdenum, which many years previously had been sampled by the Hudson's Bay Company and since had been lost trace of, owing to the competition on the then markets of the world of Bavarian graphite.

Known Deposits

"I will take that placer deposit as an example. I know of others. I know men who also know of deposits, but are unable to work them on their own account. Those men will, I am sure, do what I am willing to do. I am going to tell where that placer deposit is; I am willing to show it to returned soldier prospectors. I will work with them and aid them to make that country one of the finest gold producers yet known, and there are no strings to this offer other than this—that the Government shall finance the project on some plan similar to that which I have proposed for the benefit of the prospecting parties which take up this work of developing new resources in the Province.

"Why have I not gone to that fine placer I know of? The reason why it has been untouched is connected with the motives which actuate my present plan of telling of the richness of that country. I found that deposit, I came to Victoria on the ferry from Vancouver; I read a copy of The Daily Colonist. What took my attention was Col. Lorne Ross' statement that he was about to form a battalion of real hard and lusty backwoodsmen and miners, age no bar, minor defects not to be considered, the only qualification to be ability to carry a pack and march all day on beans and bacon. Of course I joined the minute I landed here, and became the first full private in the famous old Western Scots. As to the prospect, that could wait. I wrote of it to my son, and thought no more about it. In England I told the lad, who was as good a miner as myself, what I had found, and when he went off to France, we arranged that I would wait for him before setting out again.

"Well, the poor lad has gone, and I have now no one to take with me to it. I am going to take returned soldiers into that country, though, and I expect to see it full of ex-fighting men in the course of a few years.

Panned With Skillet

"Don't think for a moment that I tumbled on something unusual in that country. I know an ordinary camp cook who, scores of miles to the south of the district which I know personally, panned a likely looking creek with nothing better than a skillet and got 'color.'

"No, that find I tried and others I noted were nothing but what may be expected in many parts of that country. It is identical with the gold-bearing areas of the North, and the only thing which has kept it from exploitation until required by the returning men, is the forbidding appearance of the granite coast range. Behind those mighty and unmineralized hills lies what I will stake my name upon becoming the greatest asset the Province has remaining, and which will accommodate returning soldiers in their thousands as it becomes developed. All that is required is a little pluck and belief in their Province on the part of the Government, and that country will, in the course of a few years, absorb vast numbers of men and give all lines of business a tremendous impetus."

SHERIFF COMES OUT FOR TANLAC

"Money Couldn't Buy the Good It Has Done Me," Declares Prominent Houston, Texas, Official.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I gladly recommend it for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, of Houston, Tex., ex-sheriff of Harris county, recently.

Mr. Anderson is unquestionably not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular men that ever held public office in the "Lone Star" state. After serving as deputy sheriff of Harris county for 12 years, Mr. Anderson was elected chief of police of the city of Houston. He had occupied the office only a short time when the sheriff of Harris county died. Mr. Anderson's friends then persuaded him to make the race for unexpired term of sheriff, to which he was easily elected. He was honored with re-election seven different times, and served the people in this important office for 15 consecutive years. Four years ago Mr. Anderson declined re-election, and retired to private life. He cast his lot among the people of Houston and is a large property owner and foremost citizen of this interesting and prosperous city.

"I was in a run-down condition," continued Mr. Anderson, "and had no appetite at all. I could hardly sleep at night and never felt like getting up in the morning I was so tired. I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach, and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar, as when I drank it with sugar I would just belch for hours. I would bloat and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered from neuralgic pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me, only in a temporary way. I can't just tell you how I did suffer for the past four years, and up to the time I began taking Tanlac, a few weeks ago.

"When I read the testimonials of someone who had been relieved of troubles like mine I just felt like I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac, and it has done more for me than I had expected. I began to feel better after taking my first bottle and have just now started on my third, and I am a different man already. I sleep like a log now and eat just anything I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards. I am glad to indorse Tanlac because it does the work, and I am telling all my friends just what I'm telling you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. I am willing for you to publish my statement and let every suffering person who may wish to benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Victoria by D. E. Campbell. Advt.

VETERANS TAKE UP FIGHT FOR SAILORS

Ottawa Flooded with Protests Against Discrimination — Local Organisations Support Action of Veterans.

The action of the naval authorities in discharging a number of sailors from the navy with a $12 clothing allowance at a time when the returning soldiers are being granted a civilian clothing allowance of $35, has been energetically taken up by the Victoria branch of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, which has organized a flood of protests from all the local organizations and also has taken steps to have the various branches of the association throughout Canada enter similar objections to the unequal treatment now being practised between the services.

On Friday the Army and Navy Veterans sent the following telegram to the Minister of Naval Services:

"Protest very strongly re clothing allowance awarded to sailors on discharge. Have information that ten men recently discharged received an order for $12, which is absolutely inadequate. Soldiers receive $35; why cannot sailors be treated the same?"

At the same time the Army and Navy Veterans got in touch with the Board of Trade, Rotary Club, Real Estate Exchange, Win-the-War League, Victoria branch of the Navy League, Great War Veterans, Comrades of the Great War, the British Campaigners, Mr. Frank Giolma, M.P.P.-elect, and Mr. J. C. McIntosh, M.P., and all endorsed the action taken, and sent similar telegrams of protest.

The aid of the Dominion executive of the Army and Navy Veterans, and also of the branches located at Regina, Kingston and other centres, has been solicited, and Premier Oliver and Dr. Tolmie, M.P., have been asked while they are at Ottawa to urge that this discrimination against men in the naval services be terminated.

SIMPLY DID DUTY; WON MILITARY MEDAL

Cadet Frederick Gibson Honored After Action at Hill 70, Sends Decoration to Parents at Esquimalt.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Gibson, of Esquimalt Road, have received from their son, Cadet Frederick E. Gibson, the Military Medal which he won in January at Hill 70. The young soldier refuses to relate the details of the act which won this recognition. He merely states that he was given the medal for "doing his duty as all Canadians do."

It was while serving as a corporal with the famous 7th Battalion that Cadet Gibson won the Military Medal. He left here with the 103rd Battalion, having previously served two years on the ill-fated Galiano under the late Lieut. Pope.

He was born here 18 years ago and was educated in Victoria. Before enlisting he was a member of St. Paul's Choir.

At Hill 70 early this year Gibson was gassed and temporarily disabled for further service. When pronounced fit again he joined the Royal Air Force and is now a cadet in that organization.

ESQUIMALT SCHOOLS REOPEN ON MONDAY

Esquimalt children will resume their studies tomorrow morning, the schools being reopened at the usual hour as a sequence to the lifting of the general ban against meetings. Children having colds and coughs will not be allowed to attend while the possibility of infection exists. It is the opinion of the Health Board that the raising of the ban against meetings makes it useless to keep the schools closed and that it will be a waste of time from studies to retain the ban in the schools when the children can take part in other public gatherings.

The reopening of the schools will bring with it the issuance by the B.C. E.R. Co. of the new special children's school tickets for use in Esquimalt Municipality, which will be sold at eight for twenty-five cents.

SAILED FOR ENGLAND

Miss Grace Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cross, of Linden Avenue, and Miss Muriel Milligan, daughter of Mrs. Milligan, of Leighton Road, this city, sailed from New York for England last Wednesday on the SS. Carmania to take positions on the nursing staff of the Standish Voluntary Hospital, Gloucestershire.

Both ladies are members of the Victoria branch of the Voluntary Aid Detachment, which has already sent a number of volunteer workers overseas who have given splendid service during the war nursing at various military hospitals. Miss Milligan only recently completed the V. A. D. training course and the examinations. Miss Cross put in six months' work at Esquimalt and Resthaven Military Convalescent Hospitals after passing her examinations.

They left Victoria on November 11, the day the armistice was signed with Germany.

Changes in Offices—Changes which have been under contemplation for some time past were effected last week, whereby additional accommodation for provincial police headquarters was provided. The motor licence department has been moved from its former quarters in the basement of the Law Chambers on Bastion Street across to the provincial police offices, which have been enlarged by the taking in of the offices occupied for the past 17 years by Sheriff Frank Richards and staff. The sheriff's office will hereafter be located on the second floor of the Law Chambers Building.

You'd startle your tailor if, when you wanted a suit of clothes, you asked him to submit a bid in competition with a dozen other tailors.

"Why," he would say, "this is ridiculous. This man knows what kind of a suit of clothes I give him. He knows he can depend on the quality of the material, the make, the fit. He knows me, and has proved my work. Some fellow around the corner may underbid me—but what will he deliver?"

You don't buy tailoring that way. No man does. You know your tailor, you rely on him, you trust him, you give him your work just as long as he turns out good work at prices that are fair.

Do you buy your printing as intelligently? Do you make it your business to find a good printer, as you do a good tailor, and then rely on his experience, his ability, his judgment?

Men who do, get good printing. Men who buy printing here and there, wherever the price is shaved closest, are the ones who have printing worries.

WEDDINGS

Walton—Pears

The marriage of Miss Mabel Walton and Mr. William J. Pears, both of this city, took place last Thursday evening at "Breadalbane," Fort Street, the residence of Captain the Rev. Dr. Campbell, who officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Linda Rebecca Murton as bridesmaid, and her brother, Mr. Robert W. Walton, supported the groom. After their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Pears will make their home in Victoria.

McCoy—Oliver

At the residence of the Rev. Jno. Gibson Inkster, of First Presbyterian Church, on Saturday evening, 16th November, was celebrated the marriage of Miss Florence May McCoy, of Victoria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCoy, Ottawa, and Driver Gabriel Dunlop Oliver, of 21st Company Canadian Army Service Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver, late of Hawick, Scotland, and now residing at 4260 John Street, South Vancouver. The bride, who wore a neat travelling suit of brown gabardine with hat and veil to match, was attended by Miss Mary K. Anderson, and the groom was supported by Mr. Albert Rylands. The party returned to the home of the bridesmaid's parents, Fifth Street, where they were met by a number of friends. After an enjoyable evening the happy couple went away by motor for a ten days' honeymoon trip at "Ardmore," Fortuna Bay, the summer home of Mrs. Bonamy Price, of 1128 Dallas Road, where they will make their home upon their return to town.

RED CROSS WORK

James Bay Branch

The committee of above will meet at the rooms, Menzies Street, on Thursday next at 8 p. m. A full attendance is requested, as important business will be brought before the meeting.

"Messiah" Rehearsals—The rehearsals for the "Messiah" which were cancelled on account of the recent quarantine, will begin tomorrow night at the First Presbyterian Church. The date of the performance of Handel's great work had to be postponed from before until after Christmas owing to the impossibility of holding rehearsals, but announcement will be made in due course when a date is set for the presentation of the work. The choir numbers in the neighborhood of 120 voices, but there is still room for a few more, and applications will be gladly received and tests made by the conductor, Mr. Jackson Hanby. Mr. Charlesworth will be at the piano for the performance of the oratorio.

Why We Should Bathe Internally

ADDS MANY YEARS TO AVERAGE LIFE

By R. W. Beal

Much has been said and volumes have been written describing at length the many kinds of baths civilized man has indulged in from time to time. Every possible resource of the human mind has been brought into play to fashion new methods of bathing, but strange as it may seem, the most important, as well as the most beneficial of all baths, the "Internal Bath," has been given little thought. The reason for this is probably due to the fact that few people seem to realize the tremendous part that internal bathing plays in the acquiring and maintaining of health.

If you were to ask a dozen people to define an internal bath, you would have as many different definitions, and the probability is that not one of them would be correct. To avoid any misconception as to what constitutes an internal bath, let it be said that a hot water enema is no more an internal bath than a bill of fare is a dinner.

If it were possible and agreeable to take the great mass of thinking people to witness an average post-mortem, the sights they would see and the things they would learn would prove of such lasting benefit, and impress them so profoundly, that further argument in favor of internal bathing would be unnecessary to convince them. Unfortunately, however, it is not possible to do this, profitable as such an experience would doubtless prove to be. There is, then, only one other way to get this information into their hands, and that is by acquainting them with such knowledge as will enable them to appreciate the value of this long-sought-for health-producing necessity.

Few people realize what a very little thing is necessary sometimes to improve their physical condition. Also they have almost no conception of how little carelessness, indifference or neglect can be the fundamental cause of the most virulent disease. For instance that universal disorder from which almost all humanity is suffering, known as "constipation," "auto-intoxication," "auto-infection," and a multitude of other terms, is not only curable, but preventable, through the consistent practice of internal bathing.

How many people realize that normal functioning of the bowels and a clean intestinal tract make it impossible to become sick? "Man of today is only fifty per cent efficient. Reduced to simple English, this means that most men are trying to do a man's portion of work on half a man's power. This applies equally to women.

That it is impossible to continue to do this indefinitely must be apparent to all. Nature never intended the delicate human organism to be operated on a hundred per cent overload. A machine could not stand this and not break down, and the body certainly cannot do more than a machine. There is entirely too much unnecessary and avoidable sickness in the world.

How many people can you name, including yourself, who are physically vigorous, healthy and strong? The number is appallingly small.

It is not a complex matter to keep in condition, but it takes a little time, and in these strenuous days people have time to do everything else necessary for the attainment of happiness, but the most essential thing of all, that of giving their bodies their proper care.

Would you believe that five or ten minutes of time devoted to systematic internal bathing can make you healthy and maintain your physical efficiency indefinitely? Granting that such a simple procedure as this will do what is claimed for it, is it not worth while to learn more about that which will accomplish this end? Internal Bathing will do this, and it will do it for people of all ages and in all conditions of health and disease.

People don't seem to realize, strange to say, how important it is to keep the body free from accumulated body-waste (poisons). Their doing so would prevent the absorption into the blood of the poisonous excretions of the body, and health would be the inevitable result.

If you would keep your blood pure, your heart normal, your eyes clear, your complexion clean, your head keen, your blood pressure normal, your nerves relaxed, and be able to enjoy the vigor of youth in your declining years, practise internal bathing, and begin today.

Now that your attention has been called to the importance of internal bathing, it may be that a number of questions will suggest themselves to your mind. You will probably want to know WHAT an Internal Bath is, WHY people should take them, and the WAY to take them. These and countless other questions are all answered in a booklet entitled "THE WHAT, THE WHY and THE WAY OF INTERNAL BATHING," written by Doctor Chas. A. Tyrrell, the inventor of the "J.B.L. Cascade," whose life-long study and research along this line make him the pre-eminent authority on this subject. Not only has internal bathing saved and prolonged Dr. Tyrrell's own life, but the lives of multitudes of individuals have been equally spared and prolonged. No other book has ever been written containing such a vast amount of practical information to the business man, the worker and the housewife. All that is necessary to secure this book is to write to Dr. Tyrrell at Room 902, 163 College Street, Toronto, and mention having read this article in The Victoria Colonist, and same will be immediately mailed to you free of all cost or obligation.

Perhaps you realize now, more than ever, the truth of these statements, and if the reading of this article will result in a proper appreciation on your part of the value of internal bathing, it will have served its purpose. What you will want to do now is to avail yourself of the opportunity for learning more about the subject, and your writing for this book will give you that information. Do not put off doing this, but send for the book now, while the matter is fresh in your mind.

"Procrastination is the thief of time." A thief is one who steals something. Don't allow procrastination to cheat you out of your opportunity to get this valuable information, which is free for the asking. If you would be natural, be healthy. It is unnatural to be sick. Why be unnatural when it is such a simple thing to be well?

WAS SPLENDID WORKER IN LOCAL SOCIETIES

Mrs. Gillespie, Daughter of Rev. C. R. Littler, Who Recently Succumbed in Ireland, Had Friends Here.

Announcement here of the death on November 14 at Kingstown, Ireland, of Ethel Frances Mary Gillespie, wife of Lieut. J. C. Gillespie, eldest daughter of Rev. C. R. and Mrs. Littler, of Royal Oak, has caused widespread grief and regret. To the bereaved parents and relatives profound sympathy is expressed, particularly in view of the shocking suddenness with which they learned of their daughter's death without any previous intimation that she was even ill. The news came by cablegram on Wednesday last.

Born in Winnipeg, the late Mrs. Gillespie spent her early girlhood in Manitoba. Later the family removed to England, and for several years she lived with her parents there, taking up some lines of philanthropic work, in which she afterwards proved herself such a splendid and disinterested worker. In Armstrong, B.C., where Mr. Littler came to live after their return from England, she made hosts of friends, and the unusual ability which she early displayed as an effective organizer and tireless worker in church guilds and elsewhere she exhibited in even greater degree in her associations with the Daughters of Pity and other organizations of the kind when the family removed to Victoria about seven years ago. She is affectionately remembered by those who were her colleagues as well as those who benefited by her sympathetic and practical help.

In June, 1916, she went to England, where her marriage with Lieut. J. C. Gillespie, third son of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Gillespie, of Stillorgan, Ireland, too kplace, Lieut. Gillespie having gone overseas in September the previous year from Victoria to join the 9th Royal Irish Regiment for active service. While he lived in this city he practised as chartered accountant, and he, too, had many friends here.

With the altruism which has characterized her whole life, Mrs. Gillespie threw her energies into war work on her husband's departure for France, and for a year and a half was in charge of the housekeeping arrangements at a V. A. D. Hospital at Southport, England. More recently, however, she went to Ireland to take up her residence at the home of her husband's parents, "Glensilla," Stillorgan, and there her death took place on November 14.

Besides the husband and an infant daughter there survive the parents, two brothers and a sister. Her father, Rev. C. R. Littler, is rector at the church at Royal Oak, where the mother and sister, Miss Marjorie Littler, are living. One brother, Rev. C. G. M. Littler, is rector at St. Paul's, Golden, B.C., and a second brother, Lieut. Hilary V. Littler, who left with the 30th Battalion in February, 1915, is now with the 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade in France.

VICTORY DONATIONS FOR RED CROSS FUND

Victoria Branch Has Urgent Need of $15,000 Within the Next Month to Pay for Needed Supplies.

The editor of The Colonist has received the following letter from Mr. Charles Williams, honorary secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Red Cross, on behalf of which he appeals for a continuation of the generous support of the citizens of Victoria which has been a marked feature of its activity during the past four years:

"Sir,—Now that we can see peace ahead of us and our nation and allies have won a glorious victory, is it not time to show our thankfulness and appreciation of our men who have so nobly carried the honor of Canada in the battlefields of Europe, by giving an offering to the Red Cross, which has through the stress of the last four years been near them at all times with help when required?

"The Victoria branch of the Red Cross has had its share in the victory and it asks that the public who have been so generous in the past should continue its support until the present immediate indebtedness of about $15,000 is paid. This amount is required within the next thirty days and was incurred for material ordered in some cases, six months ago.

"While the actual fighting is over, there is still a great deal to be done for the sick and wounded, and the people of Northern France, Belgium, Serbia and other countries of our Allies who are absolutely destitute. This work falls on the Red Cross and workers are asked to "carry on" the good work they have done so well until these people are in a position to help themselves.

"The executive feels sure that they have only to let it be known the financial situation of this branch when sufficient money will be forthcoming to pay its debts without asking an extension of time from its creditors.

"CHAS. WILLIAMS,

"Hon. Secretary-Treasurer, Canadian Red Cross Society, Victoria, B.C. November 23, 1918."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The James Bay Social Club is resuming its series of social evenings on Wednesday next at the Connaught Seamens' Institute, Superior Street, commencing at 7:30, with a Military Five Hundred, the principal attraction. The hall has been fitted up with a new heating apparatus, so that now it is one of the most comfortable halls in the city. The committee hopes to see a goodly number of members and friends present.

Mrs. H. Douglas Lowell, of Seattle, with her little daughter Madeline, has arrived in Victoria to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Davies, of 2110 Belmont Avenue. Mrs. Lowell, who is recuperating from a recent operation, expects to remain here for about three weeks.

Mrs. L. M. Printer, of "Olive Dene," Malvern Road, Gloucester, England, announces the engagement of her daughter, Olive Mary, to Kenneth Bright Cherrett, R.N.C.V.R., Halifax, N.S. (formerly of H.M.C.S. Rainbow), only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cherrett, "Hillside," Park Road, West Hartlepool, England.

Mrs. Bishop, of 1621 Blanshard Street, is the winner of the handsome pottery jardiniere which was donated to the Red Cross by Mrs. L. W. Bick, of Elford Street, to raffle for the benefit of its funds, and which has been on exhibition in the window of J. M. Whitney & Co., corner Yates and Broad Streets, for several weeks. The drawing took place last evening in the window by courtesy of Mr. Whitney, and the ticket drawn was No. 471. The raffle realized $25 for the Red Cross funds.

Miss Constance Bruce, of Toronto, a member of the staff of the Daughters of the Empire Hospital for Canadian Officers in London, is the author and illustrator of a recent publication that is causing much favorable comment. The book, entitled "Hospital Life Behind Three Fronts, by a Canadian Nursing Sister," was written and the sketches made during spare moments while attending wounded soldiers merely for her own amusement and diversion. "The sketches are fantastic, screamingly funny," comments Anne Merrill in the Toronto Globe, "and Miss Bruce has created a new style and a new spirit in art. Can it be the very sad experiences which since September, 1914, she must of necessity have lived through, as a nursing sister in France, in Lemnos, in Salonika, that have brought out these delightfully vivid gleams by contrast?"

Anticipating the arrival at an early date of a large number of wounded soldiers, many of whom will probably enter the local military hospitals for treatment, the "J" Unit Chapter, I.O.D.E., is endeavoring to raise a substantial fund for supply them with comforts as well as those who are at present under treatment. To this end they have planned an attractive dance to be held in the Empress Hotel ballroom on Monday, December 2, and the members are busily engaged in preparing for the event, which promises to eclipse in attractions even the previous successful functions organized by this chapter.

Y. W. C. A. in New Quarters—On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, without any interruption of its service to the public, the Y. W. C. A. will move its headquarters, residence and dining room from the old Union Club Building, which it has occupied for the past six years, to the Stobart-Pease Building on Yates Street. The new home will have more bedroom accommodation than the old. It will have dining room, kitchen, clubroom, drawing room and library for the continuance of the public work of the association. The bedrooms are steam-heated and there are single and double rooms in the building.

Next of Kin Association—The adjourned annual meeting of the Great War Next of Kin Association will be held on Tuesday, November 26, at 8 p.m. at the Memorial Home, Government Street. Members, who are requested to attend in full numbers, are asked to bring with them copies of the constitution.

"What Phonograph Shall I Buy?"

How many times, when the subject of purchasing a phonograph or talking machine has come up, have you asked yourself this question!

The Edison tone test answers it for you, completely, convincingly.

Over two million music lovers have been present when this test was being made; and they have realized, as you will realize, that the New Edison alone can actually RE-CREATE the human voice and the music of human-played instruments.

It is all-important that you hear

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

because it is the only instrument that RE-CREATES the singer's voice so faithfully that the human ear cannot distinguish the rendition of the artist from that of the New Edison.

The wise way to choose your phonograph is to have the several makes of phonographs and talking machines sent to your home on trial, where you can make direct comparisons among them, and then decide which one you would like to keep—which one you think you would enjoy hearing as much five years from now as you do to-day.

Be your own salesmen. Sell a phonograph to yourself. We will gladly send a New Edison to your home for the purpose, without any obligation on your part.

COUNTRY NEEDS UNION OF FORCES

Member for Kingston Enters Objection to Attempts to End Political Truce—Great Problems to be Solved.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 23.—W. F. Nickle, K.C., M.P., Unionist member for Kingston, has addressed a letter to T. W. Close, secretary of the complimentary dinner committee, explaining why he declined to attend a dinner which that committee arranged for November 28 in Toronto, in order to allow the Liberal-Conservative party to celebrate the ending of the war, and at which Hon. Robert Rogers would be the guest of the evening.

Mr. Nickle says in part:

"While I appreciate the courtesy of being remembered, and rejoice with you that the great war is virtually over, yet I do not concur in your conclusion, that we must expect an end, at any time, to the political truce which exists at present.

"In my judgment, it will be most unfortunate if the political conditions that now exist in regard to the maintenance in power of a government representing both of the political parties should not continue.

"The problems of the war were great, and experience demonstrates that this country could only be governed, if governed satisfactorily, by a government representing all shades of political opinion, and it is not to be disputed that the problems of reconstruction, including in this term demobilization, will be so complex and far-reaching that it will be absolutely essential that as far as possible we forget past party differences and unite disinterestedly for the purpose of advancing the best interests of the people at large. Any attempt to organize, as distinct from the Unionist party the Conservative party, must necessarily irritate those Liberals who so loyally supported the Union government last year, and those members in the House who now support it, and raise in their minds suspicions as to the honesty of purpose of that branch of the Unionist party formerly known as Liberal-Conservatives.

"When the time comes that the Unionist party cannot longer continue, then it will be time enough to consider what steps should be taken for organizing into groups those who may then hold different points of view."

FORMER VICTORIAN DIES IN OREGON

MRS. ALEX WILSON
(nee Miss Isabel Cooke.

Succumbing to pneumonia following an attack of Spanish influenza, Mrs. Alex. Wilson, who before her marriage was Miss Isabel Cooke, of Victoria, died on November 2 at Boardman, Ore. Besides her husband and little daughter, who are at present in Hepner, Ore., and her parents in Ireland, she is survived by one brother in France, three sisters, two in New York, one in Hepner, Ore., and Mrs. S. B. Taylor, of 847 Viewfield Road, Victoria, who was with her during her illness.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

The attendance at the reopening drill on Friday was rather disappointing, but this was attributed to the probability that some Guides did not see the notice of the meeting. No. 5 Company in particular was conspicuous by its absence. As there is a lot of lost time to make up, it is hoped that all Guides will really try to set aside Friday evening and not let other engagements intervene on that night.

No. 4 and No. 5 Companies are appointed to act as ushers at the Princess Theatre on Wednesday night. All Guides of these Companies are asked to telephone Capt. (Miss) Unwin, 4870 or 4403L as to whether they can attend or not.

TROOPS TO PREVENT RED FLAG MEETING

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 23.—Governor Burnquist late tonight ordered out the Minneapolis and St. Paul branches of the Minnesota motor reserve corps to prevent an advertised "Red Flag" meeting of the Socialists in Minneapolis tomorrow afternoon.

The motor reserve corps was mobilized and held in readiness at the capitol here tonight. Tomorrow the entire fourth infantry, Minnesota National Guard, will be mobilized in Minneapolis. Deputy sheriffs also will be ordered out tomorrow to aid in patrolling the districts where the demonstration is scheduled to be held.

The order was issued on a request from Sheriff Langum of Hennepin County (Minneapolis)

PREMIER DEALS WITH SOLDIER QUESTION

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Dispatch from Reuter's)—Sir Robert Borden, Canadian Prime Minister, interviewed by The Pall Mall Gazette, said that owing to the illness of Sir Edward Kemp he will have to take up several unsettled demobilization questions. The subject was intimately associated with the re-establishment of returned soldiers to civil life. Methods regarding this had been decided upon during the past 18 months. Among opportunities specially obvious was the cultivation of vast areas of untouched fertile soil.

Canadian soldiers comprised a very important and enterprising element in the population. They would take back to Canada a wide vision of the world's affairs and a truer conception of progress based upon the best ideals of democracy, coupled with an earnestness of purpose which could not fail to make itself felt in the national spirit and aspirations.

Canada recognized and would repay her great indebtedness to the soldiers for their splendid services and the distinction which their achievements had brought to the Dominion.

NEW PILOT QUARTERS

A new mooring has been placed inside the Ogden Point breakwater for the pilot boats and new quarters have been opened near the Outer Docks for the pilots of the Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo districts. An office formerly occupied by the Sir John Jackson officials has been fixed up so that the men may wait in comfort for the vessels which they are to guide.

PRINCESS MARGARET

Which was being built in the Old Country for operation by the C.P.R. on this Coast, but which was taken over at the beginning of the war by the Admiralty as a mine-sweeper. She has been engaged in this work ever since. Capt. Troup states that there is small hope of the boat coming to the Coast, as she would have to be entirely rebuilt before she could be used in the passenger service.

SHIPPING MAGNATE IS REPORTED DEAD

Albert Ballin, "Napoleon of the Atlantic," Said to Have Committed Suicide Because of Armistice Terms.

Marine circles at New York have heard that Herr Albert Ballin committed suicide when he learned of the armistice terms imposed on Germany. He was the greatest shipping magnate in that country, and was as well known in London, Glasgow, Belfast and other shipbuilding centres as he was in Hamburg, Bremen and Berlin.

"Napoleon of Atlantic"

A London paper states in reference to Ballin, "the Napoleon of the Atlantic," that "If Great Britain's claim to rule the waves is imperilled the menace does not come from the German dreadnoughts, but from Herr Ballin."

He was a personal friend of the German Emperor, and was in close consultation with him when war was declared. His ambition was to see the German mercantile navy supplant the British on the waterways of the world, but he has not lived to see his ambition realized. "There is no shipping genius to compare with Herr Ballin," wrote an expert. He forgot men like Sir Edward Harland, Lord Pirrie, G. W. Wolff and the heads of the great Clyde firms, who had been engaged in shipbuilding when the German yards were in their infancy.

"Ceaseless Disquiet"

Herr Ballin was watched by the English shipping world with what was described as "ceaseless disquiet." It was in England that he began his career. His father was a small shipper at Hamburg, from which town G. W. Wolff came and became a partner in the great firm of Harland and Wolff. When a youth Ballin came to London to learn the secret of Britain's maritime greatness. He sat at a desk in the office of the Carr Line, then a small competitor of the Hamburg-Amerika Line, and made such progress that in 1882 he was sent back to Hamburg to manage the Continental passenger traffic of his company.

First Citizen

Before the war he was the first citizen of Germany, and in spite of the fact that he was a Hebrew, was possibly its most popular citizen, alike with the Kaiser and his people. This was due not merely to the fact that he was one of the chief architects of Germany's commercial development, but that he had fulfilled the Kaiser's ambition of "teaching Germany to swim." To him, more than anyone else, may be accredited the rivalry existing between England and Germany, which for years overshadowed the political sky, but ultimately became economic.

When the Hamburg-Amerika Line bought up the Carr Line, they acquired with this fleet her gallant services. Their line was then in a hopeless condition. For years it had paid no dividend. It had only five steamer routes, one to New York, and four to the West Indies and Central America, none of its 26 ships being first class.

Vast Dreams

Herr Ballin came to the line with vast dreams and boundless ambition. He wanted seven-day trans-Atlantic boats, he wanted new twin screw steamers, and talked of luxuries at sea at which amiable old gentlemen stood aghast. But they could not dismiss this surprising young man as a mere visionary or a financial plunger, for there was an air of quiet assurance about him that was indisputable. He was very unlike the modern Prussian, both in his manner and in his method of achieving what he had set his heart on. Someone has said that the Prussian wanted the shadow as well as the substance. Ballin was satisfied with the substance.

Careful of Details

No detail was too trivial to be stored away in his profusely pigeon-holed brain. He was in the matter of affairs what Lasker is at the chess board. Until his advent in the maritime history of Germany their ocean greyhounds had been built in Great Britain. He changed all that and inaugurated the practice of constructing German liners in Germany. It was natural that the Kaiser, with his passion to make Germany great at sea, should have been an enthusiastic admirer of Albert Ballin, but Ballin for his part preferred rather to reign in Hamburg as the autocrat of the German shipping trade than to accept a position in Berlin under the Prussian junker. He never ventured on the stormy sea of German politics, and had as little taste for social distinction as for public recognition.

TEN DAYS WITHOUT FOOD AND WATER

MANILA, Nov. 22.—After being 10 days without food and five without water, 14 members of the crew of the steamer Dumaru, wrecked by lightning off Guam October 16, have arrived at Somar, P.I., in a lifeboat. Seventeen of the thirty-one who boarded the boat originally, including Naval Ensign Holmes and Chief Engineer Newell, died of exposure and starvation.

This is the third boat from the Dumaru to be accounted for.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—According to the cable announcing the arrival of a boat from the wrecked steamer Dumaru at Samar, P.I., and previous cables accounting for two lifeboats and a raft, there were 55 men in the Dumaru's crew. This figure does not tally with the figure given by Captain C. Borrisen, of the Dumaru, to the former agents of the vessel here, he having placed the crew number at 46. The three boats and the raft originally contained all of the members of the crew, Captain Borrisen reported.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FREIGHTER ESCAPES FROM BALTIC SEA

Hesleyside Arrives Here After Getting Past Blockade—Three Other Ships Are Sunk in Attempt.

After a dash through the German blockade at the entrance to the Baltic Sea, the British freighter Hesleyside, arrived in the Old Country, loaded a cargo of Welsh coal and sailed for Esquimalt, arriving there several days ago.

When war broke out the vessel was in the Gulf of Finland and the Germans were between her and the North Sea. Capt. H. N. Hocking, skipper of the craft, after witnessing a part of the Russian revolution, at length decided on a dash for liberty. Five British ships attempted the escape. Three were accounted for by the Germans, but the other two made the trip safely.

The Hesleyside had a narrow escape, a torpedo passing under the counter. She just missed striking a submarine that passed in front of her.

CUNARD LINE LOST 15 SHIPS DURING THE WAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Fifteen steamships, aggregating 209,769 gross tons, were lost by the Cunard Line during the period of the war, it was learned here today. Of these all except two were classed as war losses, having been sunk by torpedoes or mines. The Campania and the Ascania were lost through accidents. The tonnage sunk represents approximately one-half of that possessed by the line at the outbreak of the war in 1914. Nearly all of the Cunard liners were well known Atlantic greyhounds, the largest of which was the Lusitania, torpedoed May 7, 1915.

The Anchor Line, a subsidiary concern of the company, also lost heavily, eight ships, including the 14,348-ton Tuscania, falling victims to the German sea depredations, the total tonnage loss of this line being 65,488.

CHOICE HOME PROPERTY

I AM offering somebody who wants a good residence property a very attractive one. The house contains 10 large rooms, well finished and well arranged, built for comfort and use, not for show.

The land consists of 2 1-3 acres, about two-thirds good land, the rest attractive rocks and trees.

The location is all that can be asked for: inside two-mile circle, on good paved street; high ground.

The price is $6,500 cash, or somewhat more on terms, and represents about two-thirds the value of the property.

If interested call and see me.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF VICTORIA

MUNICIPAL VOTERS' LIST

OWNERS OF LAND are hereby reminded that the right to have their names automatically put on the Voters' List as "assessed owners" is conditional upon their names appearing on the 1918 Assessment Roll as such owners. Where lands have been acquired since the 1918 Assessment Roll was prepared, the new owner's name or title (even though registered in the Land Registry Office) cannot be entered on the Assessment Roll without filing a statutory declaration proving the change in title. Accordingly, such owners will not appear as such on the Voters' List now being prepared unless such declarations are filed in each instance with the Clerk or Assessor of the Municipality before 5 p.m. of Saturday, the 30th November, 1918.

WELLINGTON J. DOWLER,
Municipal Clerk.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders superscribed "Tenders for Cottages" will be received by the Honorable the Minister of Railways up to 12 noon December 2, 1918, for the erection and completion of Twelve Cottages at Squamish for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company.

Plans, specifications, contract and form of tender may be seen on and after November 20, 1918, at the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company's office, Welton Block, Vancouver; the office of the Government Agent, New Westminster, or the Department of Railways, Victoria, B. C.

Each proposal must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada, made payable to the Honorable the Minister of Railways, for a sum equal to 10 per cent of tender, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. The cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned to them.

Tenders will not be considered unless made out on the forms supplied, signed with the actual signature of the tenderer.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

A. F. PROCTOR,
Chief Engineer,
Department of Railways, B. C. Office of Chief Engineer, Victoria, B. C., November 15, 1918.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of 21 years, renewals for a further term of 21 years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal subdivisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5, which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, rescinded by Chap. 27 of 4-5 George V, assented to 12th June, 1914.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of Interior.

(N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—83575.)

TAXATION ACT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

As it may not be generally known to the public at large, attention is drawn to the fact that under an Amendment to the Taxation Act, more particularly as regards "Income and Personal Property" passed in 1918, every person without notice or demand, shall make a return to the Assessor of the Assessment District wherein such property and income is liable to be assessed.

This return should be made on Form No. 7, copies of which may be had from me on application.

Any person who, without reasonable excuse, fails, refuses or neglects to comply with the requirements of the Act shall, on summary conviction, be liable to a penalty not exceeding $500.

Notice is hereby given that it is my intention to proceed against persons who have neglected to comply with the provisions of the Act.

THOS. H. LEEMING,
Assessor and Collector.

TRADERS CONTINUE TO DEPRESS MARKET

Induced to Sell Stocks by Various Developments, Including Mr. McAdoo's Resignation—Several Issues Affected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Traders drew unfavorable inferences from various overnight developments, including the resignation of Secretary McAdoo, and continued to sell stocks during today's short but animated session.

The issues most affected had no direct bearing upon national or internation events, metals, motors and equipments displaying greatest weakness.

Liquidation of coppers proceeded on signs of further unsettlement in the trade.

United States Steel was the only leader to maintain a semblance of steadiness. Total sales amounted to 335,000 shares.

Bonds were active, with an easier trend. For the first time since their listing on the stock exchange the latest Liberty 4's fell under the "pegged" price of 98.00, numerous sales being reported down to 97.78. Total sales of bonds, par values, $7,575,000.

The bank statement more than fulfilled the popular expectations, actual loans contracting almost $110,000,000 and excess reserves gaining slightly more than $68,000,000, restoring total excess reserves to $97,000,000, their highest level since the later part of September. Reserves of members in the local federal reserve bank increased by more than $69,000,000, against last week's decrease of almost $34,000,000.

TO DISCUSS PLANS

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—J. W. Norcross, vice-president and managing director of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., accompanied by M. J. Haney, one of the Toronto directors, and F. S. Leard, comptroller and also a director, are leaving this afternoon on their way to London. It is stated that Mr. Norcross has been invited by the London advisory board of which Sir Trevor Dawson is chairman, to go over for the discussion with them of plans for the future, and of the policy of the company with respect to its ocean trade which came into existence since the war started.

The company has now 20 steamships in the Atlantic trade, many of them chartered to the French Government, and it is believed that it will be the policy of the management in the future to continue and expand its ocean service connection.

STATES MOULDERS LIABLE UNDER ACT

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 23. — That the moulders who went on strike on Friday morning rendered themselves liable under the Industrial Disputes Act is the opinion of Senator Gideon Robertson, expressed in a wire received in the city from him on Friday. The senator, who was successful in bringing about a settlement of the shipyard dispute it British Columbia, stated that since the moulders repudiate the agreement he was successful in securing between the employers and the men, he cannot intervene in the dispute, and simply quotes the section of the act which he says covers the strike put into effect by the moulders.

SIR DAVID BEATTY REJECTS REQUESTS

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—According to a special cable from James Touhy, in London, Admiral Meurer, who commanded the surrendering German fleet, said to Admiral Beatty:

"You understand we are driven to this. There is no child life left in Germany. All are dying of hunger. We ask you to accept the full crews instead of only half the personnel. We cannot feed them, and we dread more trouble."

Admiral Beatty refused this request, whereupon the German commander produced a document for Sir David to sign, stipulating that the German crews would not be ill-treated.

"Tell them they are coming to England; that will be enough," Admiral Beatty replied, tearing up the document. The same writer quotes Admiral Beatty as saying: "I always thought they would come out, but not like this, on a piece of string."
